BODY OF MILTON BABY BOY FOUND IN OLD QUARRY HOLE

Infant Drowns In Sight Of Home

Father Identifies Son, Collapses

Joseph Murphy, 27-months-old Milton baby who vanished from his yard yesterday afternoon, was found dead today in a water-filled quarry hole 75 feet from his home.

The body was found in 12 feet of water as the hole was being drained by police and firemen.

Sergeant William Brown of the Metropolitan District police, fishing in the hole with a grappling iron, shouted that he had found the body.

Gerard Murphy, the child's father who had aided in the long search without a moment's sleep, rushed from his house to the scene when told of the discovery.

FATHER IN COLLAPSE

He identified the body as that of his missing child. He then broke down and wept uncontrollably.

Medical Examiner Fred E. Jones later reported a verdict of accidental drowning.

The hole where the body was found is directly opposite the tiny footprint which was discovered last night in the mud of a sloping cliff-edge which runs into the quarry.

This had been the searchers' only clue. It was also at this spot that the child's dog had barked and showed excitement when the officers reached the quarry.

500 IN SEARCH

While the hole was being drained, included in the crowd of curious spectators were a large number of wealthy Milton residents, who had

Joseph L. Murphy, 27 months old, who was found drowned today in a quarry hole after a frantic search had been made in Milton. It was believed the child fell into the hole while wandering in quest of playmates.

A sad father, Gerard Murphy of Milton, searched all night in the woods near his Rose street, Milton, home for his missing son, Joseph. With him is shown lad's pet dog, "Gyp." Later the father identified the body found in the quarry hole, then collapsed.

State Tax Bureau to Feel Hurley Axe

State Tax Commissioner Henry F. Long was called today before Governor Hurley's budget advisers, John Lacey Delaney of Cambridge and Francis McKeown of Springfield, indicating that the axe would swing next in Long's department.

During his administration former Governor Curley placed several Republican supporters in that department and, in the closing days, gave jobs there to several members of the executive department secretarial staff.

Among those so placed were former State Auditor Alonzo B. Cook and former State Treasurer Fred J. Burrell of Medford, both Republicans. Governor Hurley first became treasurer, six years ago by defeating Burrell.

Others were Alfred L. Smith of Boston, a Curley secretary; Patrick J. Hurley of Fall River, who was secretary to former Lieutenant Governor Joseph L. Hurley; Donald Desmond of Milton, Thomas A. McDonough, Russell A. Wood of Cambridge and William Murphy of Boston.

Cook, as a special investigator, is drawing $6 a day, Burrell is receiving $2500 a year as a deputy

A Widow's Sacrifice! Aflame for Dead Love

Lucknow, India, Jan. 14 (AP)—A huge crowd watched a Brahmin widow willingly burn to death today on the funeral pyre of her husband to prove her wifely excellence.

Her act, the rite of Suttee, was once the custom of bereaved Brahmin wives but has become almost extinct under British rule.

The wail of conches into which many of the witnesses blew and the clanging of cymbals drowned out the woman's agonized cries as she cremated herself before a temple near Agra.

She was dead before police arrived. They made several arrests.

Mrs. Prior's Secret Release Defended by Comm. Lyman

State Commissioner of Correction Arthur T. Lyman today issued a statement defending his release on indenture of Mrs. Grace Prior, after she had served only six months of an eight-year sentence for manslaughter.

Mrs. Prior, who lived in Allston, shot and killed George M. Frame of Beverly during a drinking party and was found guilty by a Suffolk superior court jury and sentenced to Sherborn reformatory.

She was released last October, but it did not become known until last night. She was indentured to her brother, State Trooper Lewis E. Bond of Braintree, under a law enacted 60 years ago.

George M. Cohan was hailed as "dean of the American stage" by Governor Charles F. Hurley today when the veteran actor called at the Governor's office.

STRIKE PARLEY TAKES RECESS

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 14 (AP) — Governor Frank Murphy's strike peace conference between General Motors representatives and leaders of the United Automobile Workers of America recessed at 1:50 p. m. today without reaching a basis of settlement.

The conference will be resumed at 3 p. m.

Governor Murphy, who requested them to meet him "without condition or prejudice," to seek "an immediate and peaceful termination" of the strikes which have thrown 114,000 General Motors wage earners out of work, opened the conference at 11:08 a. m. (EST).

What Is So Rare as a Day in January?

Q—What is so rare as a day in June?

A.—A day — this day, for instance—in January.

Which merely leads gently to the recording of the fact that Boston's spring-like weather continued today.

The temperature climbed to an official mark of 53 at 1 p. m. and then gently dropped about a degree an hour. Many a street thermometer showed readings in the sixties and it seemed warmer.

The record January 14 high, made in 1932, is 69. The record low for the day is 8 below zero in 1914.

"Not a day this year has the temperature been below normal. It has been more than ten degrees a day above normal since before Christmas," said G. Harold Noyes, the weather man.

"This sort of weather will end tomorrow."

The forecast is warm, with rain tonight.

POPE AT MASS IN WHEELCHAIR

Vatican City, Jan. 14 (AP)—Pope Pius XI felt sufficiently recovered today to be transferred again from his sickbed to a specially built wheel chair.

He was moved into a salon adjoining the papal bedroom and received his sister, Donna Camilla Ratti, and Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, Papal secretary of state, in audience.

The Holy Father also was wheeled into his chapel where he heard mass.

Vatican attendants reported the Pontiff suffered additional pain throughout the night because of his zeal in being moved to the wheel chair yesterday.

Trout Wallops, Fells Man in N. H.

Laconia, N. H., Jan. 14 (AP)—Take the word of Thomas J. O'Mara, a grocer, a seven-pound trout has an "awful kick."

A trout attempting to jump the Main street bridge, he reported, struck, felled and stunned him.

Hoyt Winchester, lakes region guide and trapper, gave credence to O'Mara's report with the explanation that during high water the trout probably mistook the bridge for a waterfall and attempted to jump it.

WOMAN'S CLOTHING CLUE TO KIDNAPER

BULLETIN

Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 14 (AP)—Federal Bureau of Investigation agents studied a tir chain stained with human blood in the latest clue in tehir search for the kidnaper and slayer of Charles Mattson.

The bloody chain was taken from a stolen automobile recovered at Everett, Wash., near where the beaten body of the 10-year-old Tacoma kidnap victim was found Monday.

Finding of a lipstick frozen in snow on the running board of the machine led officials to check the possibility of a feminene accomplice.

Everett, Wash., Jan. 14 (INS)—Discovery of a bit of feminine wearing apparel today in the Mattson kidnap-murder car here gave rise to the famous old French police cry—"find the woman."

Chiefs in the army of law enforcement agents trying desperately to capture—or kill—the black whiskered "Tim" who kidnaped and beat to death 10-year-old Charles Mattson, quickly revised their hunt to include a woman.

They believe now "Tim" was aided in the horrible crime by a feminine companion; at least that a woman was in the blood stained car impounded here by G-men, which was used to transport the little boy's battered body to the snow bank near Everett, where it was found Monday.

The sensational new trend of the case followed finding of the clothing—a satin slip—by an International News Service correspondent.

Possibility that the apparel was in the car when it was stolen last Friday from Vern Williams, Everett contractor, was removed when Williams told International News Service he was positive there was no clothing of any kind in the machine.

He had just returned from a trip to Grand Coulee dam, in eastern Washington, and had unloaded his car shortly before it disappeared.

Other major developments in the intensive search for "Tim" included:

1—Discovery of a hammer, possibly used by the fiend to batter his child victim's head.

2—The revelation that the murder car had been driven only 75 miles after it was purloined, definitely centering the man hunt around Everett.

3—Arrest of a man at Olympia, Wash., under circumstances which caused authorities to hold him "for Mattson investigation."

4—Removal of the last doubt that officers have the murder car when a chemical analysis disclosed blood on the rear seat was human and of the same classification as Charles Mattson's.

5—The disclosure that state highway patrolmen are "staked" at a house in Everett, waiting to spring a trap they hope will net "Tim" and his accomplice, or accomplices.

6—Reports from California that a suspect is under investigation at Santa Rosa and that Folsom and San Quentin prisons

2000 on N. Y. Ferry in Collision With Mailboat in Fog

New York, Jan. 14 (AP)—Ocean liners and freighters were held at anchor in New York bay for several hours today by a heavy fog, while 2000 passengers aboard the Staten Island ferry, Tompkinsville, were thrown into confusion when the ferryboat collided with the U. S. mailboat, President, off Governor's island.

Many men and women on the ferry were thrown to the decks and knocked down, following the impact, but Deputy Commissioner A. J. Hudson, in charge of municipal ferry operations, said, after a check, no passenger was injured.

Edward's Accordion Wheezes Waltzes

Enzesfeld, Austria, Jan. 14 (AP)—The Duke of Windsor, it was disclosed today, may leave Castle Enzesfeld, his retreat since he abdicated the British throne, to be the guest of Hungarian friends near Budapest.

Friends of the former King said it was understood he would be a guest at a castle near Budapest, at least for a short time, and then would return here.

Baron Eugene De Rothschild, his host, already has left for Paris, and the Baroness is planning to follow in a few days.

Vienna newspapers reported the Duke, despite a sore hand, is devoting his evening hours to practising Austrian waltzes on an accordion he received for a Christmas present.

KIDNAP-SLAYER HAD ACCOMPLICE, G-MEN DISCOVER

FIND WOMAN'S SLIP IN BLOOD-STAINED AUTO

have been asked to forward photographs of two former convicts to Tacoma police for possible identification in the Mattson case.

The suspect held incommunicado at Santa Rosa indentified himself as Harold O. Sproule, 38. Because road maps of the Pacific northwest and stationery of Seattle, Portland and Vancouver, B. C., hotels were found among his effects, Sproule at least temporarily, topped the G-Man's list of suspects.

RESEMBLES "HOOK-NOSE"

Another reason why G-Men were making an exhaustive check of Sproule's activities since the kidnaping was due to the resemblance of his facial characteristics to those of the kidnap-slayer. Sproule's nose was described as "long and lean," resembling the hook-nose of the kidnap-slayer.

The hammer, similar to those used by machinists, was found by the state highway patrol two miles south of the spot where the boy's body was tossed into the brush. It was on the same road.

Rain and melting snow of the past three days had washed off any clues but the officers scooped up soil under the tool and turned it over to a chemist for examination. They believe the soil analysis will reveal hair and blood from Charles' head.

A local chemist identified the blood on the seat of the car impounded here as closely as he could. Scrapings from the seat and a sample of the Mattson boy's blood, however, were sent to the federal Bureau of Investigation at Washington for a chemical comparison.

The man held at Olympia, according to state highway officers, was seen in the vicinity of the fashionable home of Dr. W. W. Mattson, the murdered boy's father, shortly before Charles was abducted.

FIND STOLEN ARTICLES

Further, it was said, the suspect had in his possession when arrested articles stolen from homes in the Mattson neighborhood. The only weak link in this chain is that the accused burglar was arrested at Olympia two days before Charles' body was consigned to the snow here, a fact which officers say might be due to an accomplice being left in Everett to dispose of the body.

The watch on the house here followed a trap at another residence which snapped on the wrong person, two workmen who were able to establish beyond doubt their non-participation in any crime.

But the officers, firm in their belief that the slayer still is around Everett, immediately set up their watch at the new place, hoping "Tim" will appear.

This house, under renovation, shows signs of occupancy since work was halted temporarily three weeks ago. This fits into the time element, as Charles was abducted December 27.

COMPARE IDENTIFICATION

Sproule is 5 feet 7½ inches tall; weighs 135 pounds; has brown hair and brown, slanting eyes; is left-handed.

The description of the kidnap-slayer as broadcast by Tacoma police is:

"Hook nosed; left-handed; about 45 years old; 5 feet 7 or 8 inches; 145 pounds; swarthy complexion; heavily bearded."

Sproule, shaving when arrested, has a heavy beard.

When taken to the Sonoma County jail in Santa Rosa, Sproule was very nervous. He trembled so he could not light a cigarette.

After spending a long session with the suspect, G-men characteristically refused to comment, and Santa Rosa police, enjoined by G-men to remain silent, also were tight-lipped.

Among Sproule's effects which were brought to San Francisco headquarters of G-men 40 miles south of Santa Rosa, was a sheaf of sex literature, heavily underscored, and hotel letterheads and soap bars from various places in the Pacific Northwest, including Seattle, Portland and Vancouver, B. C.

EX-CONVICT HUNTED

The No. 2 suspect being hunted by California police is an ex-convict named Fred Orrin Haynes, 48, whose long, slightly hooked nose and a boast he assertedly made to a Los Angeles woman friend, caused G-men to place him on the suspect list.

Helen Barber, serving a year term in Los Angeles county jail for a burglary in which Southern California police are convinced Haynes was involved, informed Los Angeles officers that Haynes planned to kidnap a Glendale physician's son last December.

Miss Barber then tipped officers that Emerson Smith, habitual criminal now serving a life term in Folsom Prison, was a former prison pal of Haynes. Questioned by Warden Clarence Larkin of Folsom, Smith denied knowledge of Haynes' movements since he was paroled.

Haynes was discharged from Folsom Oct. 6, 1934, after serving 3½ years for receiving stolen property. It was his second prison term. Previously he served time in San Quentin Prison for burglary, being paroled in 1926.

BONUS MONEY WAITS

Last August Haynes directed Folsom prison officials to send his army bonus money to a Seattle address. However, he did not call for the money, probably because he is wanted on 14 counts of burglary.

The other two suspects wanted are James F. Donovan, 29, and Robert L. Peterson, 36, ex-convicts of San Quentin prison. Warden Court Smith of San Quentin sent photographs of both men to Tacoma G-men after being advised they had been placed on the suspect list. Smith was informed the two men were believed to have occupied a room in a Tacoma hotel from December 20 to 26, and since have disappeared.

Donovan, 29 years old, five feet nine inches, weighing 158 pounds, served three years in San Quentin for grand theft, being released May 21, 1935. He had been sentenced from Los Angeles.

Peterson, 36 years old, five feet 8½ inches, 144 pounds, was paroled from San Quentin prison last September to go to Washington.

200 AT FUNERAL

Outwardly calm and collected, Dr. and Mrs. Mattson and their two other children, William, 6, and Muriel, 4, attended a brief funeral service for Charles yesterday at a Tacoma funeral parlor. Two hundred friends and relatives attended.

The Rev. Harold Long said:

"We are few in number but beyond us there are thousands, perhaps millions, whose thoughts are with us."

The card of J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, was on a floral blanket.

The minister saw "A time to resolve that because of him (Charles) the world shall be made safe for children."

The body was placed in a mausoleum.

Robs Tacoma Bank Under Law's Nose

Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 14 (AP)—A robber chose Tacoma—or all places—to hold up a bank.

Glenn Frank's Son, and R. M. Devens, Pay Auto Fines

Glenn Frank, Jr., 18, Harvard University freshman and son of the recently deposed president of University of Wisconsin, today was fined $5 for operating an automobile without a license, outgrowth of a collision with a traffic beacon in Central square, Cambridge, December 19.

Middlesex County District Court Judge Edward A. Counihan, Jr., found Frank not guilty of operating under the influence of liquor and operating so as to endanger.

Richard M. Devens, 20, brother of Charlie Devens, former Harvard and New York Yankee baseball pitching star, pleaded guilty to a drunkenness charge and had his case placed on file. He was found not guilty of allowing an improper person to drive his automobile, and of operating under the influence of liquor.

Only one of three arresting officers appeared as prosecutors. Officer John Cahalan said the other two were sick. Cahalan said Frank admitted having four drinks of beer at a party earlier in the evening.

Devens withdrew an appeal from a $20 fine in connection with another case, and paid the fine. He had been convicted of operating so as to endanger, November 25, when his car struck a woman near Harvard square.

Irish Envoy's Wife on 1st Visit Here Goes Shopping

Boston stores achieved new fame today when Mrs. Michael MacWhite, wife of the Irish Free State minister at Washington, on her first visit to Boston was most anxious to visit the stores of the city.

"I've heard so much about them," she told ship-board reporters.

Mrs. MacWhite arrived on the Canadian National Steamship liner, Lady Rodney, which docked at Commonwealth Pier today en route from Bermuda to Nova Scotia.

Bunker Hill Monument and the State House were also on the Irish woman's itinerary, but way down the list after the shops.

Also disembarking was Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Channing, Jr., of Dover, who were married three weeks ago at Rye, New York.

Mrs. Channing, Jr., was the former Miss Elaine Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Taylor of Rye, New York.

Mrs. M. A. Kennedy of Dakota street, Dorchester, arrived home from a Bermuda cruise with her two children, Ursula, eight, and Thomas, six.

MOTHER, ON STAND, TELLS OF PHONE GIRL'S DEATH

Norwich, Conn., Jan. 14 (AP)—A gray-haired, soft spoken woman, Mrs. Maude Sullivan, told today how she and her husband took her 17-year-old daughter, Ellen, and two other girls to the Danceland Casino at Ocean Beach the night the state accuses Robert A. Simpson, orchestra leader, of causing young Ellen Sullivan's death.

With neighbors and friends crowded into the court room, Mrs. Sullivan said the gay youngsters went to the dance from her home in New London shortly before nine p. m.

She left them at the Casino and with her husband drove back home.

About 10:30, Mrs. Sullivan said, she was in bed when she heard the front door open. It was Ellen returning.

"Is the dance over," Mrs. Sullivan asked.

"No, Mama," answered the 17-year-old telephone operator. "I came back to change my shoes. They're killing me."

STATE CHARGES ATTACK

Mrs. Sullivan said she did not see Ellen again until the girl was dying in a hospital from injuries sustained, so the state charges, when Simpson, keeping a "date" with her after the dance, attacked her in the darkened Casino Hall.

She fell from a window to a concrete sidewalk 25 feet below.

Ellen was a second year high school student in 1935 when she left school to go to work as a telephone operator in New London, Mrs. Sullivan testified.

The night she crashed to her death from the second story window she went to the dance wearing a white jacket with big orange buttons down the front, a brown skirt and white shoes. Her mother said she was "very happy" that night.

On the way to the dance they dropped off Ellen's sister Jane at the Lawrence Memorial Hospital, where the sister was in training as a nurse. Ellen was taken there after the fall and died there two days later.

COMPANION TESTIFIES

Frances Duchette, a pretty young brunette and with Mrs. Corinne Castanza, companions of Ellen at the dance, filled in the hours before the young telephone girl kept her rendezvous with Simpson after midnight.

Ellen had one glass of beer at Izzy's, a beach restaurant, went home just before intermission at 10:30 to change her shoes and get her bathing suit, went swimming for half an hour and then told the other girls:

"I'm going to meet Bob."

"Do you mean Simpson, the accused?" asked State Prosecutor Arthur M. Brown.

"Yes," said Miss Duchette.

TESTIMONY CONFLICTS

Joseph Castanza of New London, saxaphone player in Simpson's band at Danceland Casino at Ocean Beach, 11 miles from here, testified she was "feeling good, but not intoxicated" and that all six in the party at Izzy's restaurant on the beach drank from one pitcher of beer.

Margaret Mary O'Neill of New London, meeting Miss Sullivan that night for the first time, testified, however, that "Helen was under the influence of liquor."

"She was loud. She said she didn't want to go home because she didn't have to go to work the next morning. She cried when Bob Simpson wouldn't buy her more beer."

'Snuff King' Fortune Sought by Hub Man

Aubrey C. Kretschmar, Boston advertising man, is one of 17,000 claimants watching the outcome of hearings which began today at Philadelphia, to decide the disposition of $17,000,000, left by Mrs. Walter Garrett, widow of America's "snuff king."

Kretschmar, who lives with his wife and four children on Worcester road, Framingham, entered his claim as a second cousin of Mrs. Garrett.

He is represented in the will contest by former Attorney General Wilhelm F. Knauer of Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Garrett died in 1930 and her will disposed of only $16,000 of her vast fortune. The claimants come from all 48 states and 29 foreign lands.

The state of Pennsylvania contends Mrs. Garrett left no heirs and that therefore the fortune should go to the state's treasury under the escheat laws.

The hearings may last many months, or even years. Even if the $17,000,000 is divided among some of the claimants, the federal government and the state of Pennsylvania will collect huge sums in taxes.

They Won't

Washington, Jan. 14 (INS)—Robert Doyle Bawman, 36, went to the White House to ask President Roosevelt to make the authorities stop trailing him.

Today he was in Gallinger hospital, for mental observation, and he did not see the President. He told his questioners he had escaped from the Kansas State Asylum for the Insane.

Beaupre a Candidate

His candidacy for selectman in Watertown was announced today by Charles T. Beaupre, former state police captain, who resigned following his exoneration by a court-martial of charges filed against him in the department.

Harvard Professor Radio Prank Victim

Could a learned Harvard historian and master of Eliot House have requested:

"I Don't Want to Make History, I Just Want to Make Love" over an all-night radio station?

And then follow it up with requests for such capricious tunes as:

"I'm a Ding Dong Daddy from Dumas" and "I Don't Want to Go to Bed?"

Up-late radio listeners heard requests for the songs made in the name of Professor Roger B. Merriman, and, it was learned today, quickly informed the savant, especially after the announced remarked after the "I Don't Want to Go to Bed" request:

"Well, stick with us then, old boy."

A telephone call from Prof. Merriman informing the station he was not making any requests brought the announcement:

"The professor has just called to say some of his students have been requesting numbers under his name. The professor says he can 'take it,' but he would like, nevertheless, to have us stop using his name and reprimand the boys who have been using it."

Hit-Run Driver Hurts Two Men

Search was under way throughout Greater Boston today for the hit-and-run autoist who struck and seriously injured two men as they were repairing their beach wagon at Broadway and Green street, Chelsea.

The injured men, Victor Melano, 21, and Salvatore Maccaro, 25, both of Tomona street, Revere, suffered bad fractures and are under treatment at Chelsea Memorial Hospital.

Boy Goes to Last Rest as G-Men Find Kidnap Car

Bearing the tiny, broken body of Charles Mattson, 10-year-old son of Dr. W. W. Mattson and victim of a fiendish kidnaper-slayer, the casket is seen here being placed in the hearse outside the Mattson home in Tacoma. While the grief stricken family was performing this last sad service, federal, state and local police were tightening the net around the kidnaper.

This is the automobile in which the body of 10-year-old Charles Mattson was transported to the spot in the Washington wilderness, where it was found Monday. Analysis of bloodstains on the back seat is said to have checked with the lood-type of the murdered boy. Picture of slain boy in insert.

AUTO HITS 'EL' GIRDER, 2 HURT

Two men were seriously injured today when their auto crashed into a Boston Elevated upright as they crossed the Charlestown bridge, bound for Boston.

They were Francis Scoppa, 32, of 64 Chatham road, Everett, and John Callahan, 39, of 26 Central avenue, Revere.

Both suffered possible skull fractures and brain concussions, Haymarket hospital doctors said. Scoppa also was under treatment for numerous lacerations and fractured knees.

Callahan also suffered a broken left arm and lacerations to the scalp.

Wally Divorce Whispers:

Simpson Presses Slander Suit

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service Staff Correspondent
Copyright 1937, by International News Service

London, Jan. 14 (INS)—The hitherto self-effacing Ernest Simpson, tired of the "unimportance of being Ernest," ruthlessly pressed his demand today for a substantial money settlement in court or out, to silence the reported whispering campaign against him in Mayfair's salons.

Newspapers quickly turned the whispers into a shout when they splashed Simpson's slander suit against Mrs. Joan Sutherland with prominence, reminiscent of the crisis during King Edward's abdication for love of Mrs. Wallis Simpson.

The Daily Mirror devoted practically its entire front page to Simpson's action, growing out of remarks Mrs. Sutherland allegedly made regarding Mrs. Simpson's divorce suit. Long paragraphs told of Simpson's career at Harvard, in the royal guards, and in the shipping business.

Settlement Seen

Although Simpson is understood to be keen on letting his slander writ go to trial for a public airing of West End society's gossip, he is expected to agree to a settlement out of court.

Simpson, who quietly went about his business while his wife was front-page news all over the world, was represented as greatly distressed by innuendoes concerning motives for the divorce.

He did not appear in court when Mrs. Simpson was awarded a decree nisi at Ipswich, but now, tortured by muttered quips, he wants to take the stand in his slander action and tell "at long last" his side of the story.

Mrs. Sutherland, wife of Lieut. Col. Arthur H. C. Sutherland, left for a secret destination in Scotland without commenting on the writ filed against her by Simpson. Attorneys, it is understood, are negotiating for a settlement.

Simpson's suit, a revival of chatter about the Duke of Windsor, and a back-to-Victorianism movement that has even suggested that King George VI grow a beard like his father's, failed, however, to impede the legal process of Mrs. Simpson's divorce action.

Wally Decree in April

The King's proctor, whose duty is to pry into the sincerity of divorce actions, decided, after thoroughly investigating Mrs. Simpson's suit, that there was no reason why he should intervene. Consequently there is nothing to keep the decree "nisi" already granted to the former Baltimore woman from becoming final in April, it was learned.

Meanwhile former King Edward again became a favorite topic in the Weekly Review, which only last week criticized his brother's, the Duke of Kent's, social circles.

Queen Elizabeth will "put crinolines" on the court and the Duke of Windsor will be indirectly rebuked by staff changes, the weekly indicated.

Parliamentary labor leaders, according to the News Review, told the cabinet they would refuse to support an increase in the royal civil list in favor of the Duke of Windsor. The government has therefore decided Edward's yearly allowance will come from the Duchy of Cornwall, now the property of George VI.

"Buckingham Palace dignitaries have emphasized once more, as in the past, that no invitation to court will be issued to the guilty party in a divorce," said the News Review.

"Buckingham Palace was a quieter place last week than since the days of the beloved George V. Courtiers believe Lord Wigram (secretary to the King) will have no difficulty in restoring the old order.

"Seriously suggested in some quarters was a beard for his majesty. It is said that if George would affect one, his resemblance to his father would be even more marked than now.

"Were he to accept this proposal, many older court authorities would be delighted. When Edward VIII was on the throne he showed no fondness for whiskers, saying:

" 'A man doesn't need whiskers to show that he is a good soldier.' "

Mauve Regime

Changes planned at Buckingham Palace under the new mauve regime, said Cavalcade, include:

"Any court official known to be in communication with the Duke of Windsor will be asked to resign.

"Many officials who served George V and left the court during the changes made by Edward will be recalled and in some cases promoted.

"When Queen Elizabeth confided to her maid that she was going to make Buckingham Palace as bright and cherry as her present home at 145 Piccadilly, she meant every word. But when she returned this week she realized that officials organize everything.

"She realized that palace officials are taking the Archbishop of Canterbury's castigation of Edward VIII's social circle literally and she, like a courtier, is tightening up court etiquette, restoring Georgian formality, and putting a crinoline on modern life and manners."

Rev. Conrad Better

Condition of Reverend A. Z. Conrad, veteran pastor of Park street church, was reported as improved today at Phillips House, Massachusetts General Hospital.

Wellesley Girls Put New Life in 'King Tut'

(Picture from International News Photograph Service)

When Helen Wigglesworth, Wellesley junior, shown above, gets out of college it won't be the pretty decorations on a car that will catch her eye. No sir! The first place she'll look will be under the hood—and she'll know what ought to be there!

(Picture from International News Photograph Service)

And here's another member of the auto mechanics class. She's Harriet Harrison, a junior, and is exploring the inwards of "King Tut," one of the class' experimental subjects. "King Tut" is of 1918 vintage but boasts good, solid framework that tests Harriet's ingenuity. Can you imagine an auto salesman trying to sell Harriet a "lemon."

WELLESLEY AUTOISTS

College Girls Learn Mechanics

Notice to automobile salesmen:

Don't ever try to fool Wellesley college students when they want to buy an automobile, particularly members of the automobile mechanic class.

Just because some women are enticed by the pretty color of the car, the cut glass vase which holds a single rose or the cute little cigarette lighter on the side, don't think that Wellesley students are the same.

For nearly 15 years the physics department of Wellesley College has taught automobile mechanics to students who choose the course, it was revealed today.

Helene Wigglesworth of Kenilworth, Ill., and Harriet Harrison of Grosse Point, Mich., both juniors at Wellesley, along with many other students, believe in knowing what makes the wheels of an automobile turn.

They have enrolled in the class of Miss Lucy Wilson, instructor, and professor of physics.

The girls of Miss Wilson's class are taught what makes an automobile function and what is essential for safe driving.

The course necessitates their studying the entire mechanical system of automobile, including the entire electric system.

BIRTHDAY FETE SEEN RECORD

Emerson college girls were among the scores of volunteers hard at work today mailing the thousands of tickets ordered in advance by persons planning to attend the Roosevelt Birthday Ball at Boston Garden, January 29.

Demands for tickets, pouring in by letter and telephone, encouraged committee members in their belief that this year's big party, for the benefit of infantile paralysis sufferers, will be a record success.

Mayor Mansfield, back in Boston after a personal conference with the President, said today that assistance is more than ever needed by Massachusetts institutions offering orthopedic treatment to children and adults convalescing from the disease.

The committee in charge of the ball pointed out again today that by far the greater part of money raised at the annual affair at the Garden goes to hospitals or other philanthropic organizations here.

Last year, only 30 per cent of profits in excess of $10,000 went to the National Committee of Research for distribution to colleges and laboratories.

Help Enough Here

On its way to Washington today was a report from Mayor Mansfield's municipal engineering department asserting that workers enough to build Boston's proposed $2,500,000 City Hall can be taken from relief rolls here.

AS I SEE IT

By DAMON RUNYON

(Copyright, 1937, by King Features Syndicate, Inc. International copyright and all other rights reserved.)

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 14—We have received a letter from a friend in New York city advising us of a serious situation in his household.

DAMON RUNYON

His good wife, the partner of his joys and sorrows for nearly 20 years, has launched a sit-down strike on him.

This may strike some of our readers as amusing. But our correspondent, a sedate, home-loving man, is not given to joking, and he assures us that the missus' sit-down strike is no laughing matter.

He says that about two weeks ago, he came home to his apartment on Riverside drive, after a hard day's work in his office downtown, to find his wife sitting at the window loooking out at the Hudson river, with a detective novel in her lap.

For years, and years, at the hour of his home-coming he always found her in the kitchen making merry with pots and pans. The savory aroma of her cooking invariably filled the apartment. The table would be set, snowy with linen, and sparkling with glassware and silverware.

But this night the premises were dark, and drear. No pleasing odors came from the kitchen. The table wasn't laid. And there she sat with a detective novel in her lap, and a strange light in her eyes.

She Got Her Idea From the Papers

In some alarm, our correspondent inquired as to the state of her health, a matter that we are sure hadn't concerned him much up to this time. He has often told us that his wife comes of healthy stock.

She said she felt all right, except that she was a little sick of her hum-drum existence. She said she was on a sit-down strike, and he might as well realize it at once. She said she got the idea from reading the newspapers about the sit-down strikes in industrial plants.

Our correspondent says he realizes now that it was a mistake to subscribe to a morning and evening newspaper, to be delivered at his apartment. He says if it hadn't been for them, his wife would never had heard of the sit-down strike. She isn't much of a hand for getting around.

She said if he wanted his dinner, he could go out and get it, and the same thing went for his 7:30 breakfast, too. She said she was going to catch up on nearly 20 years of lost sleep.

So our correspondent went out and got his dinner at a nearby restaurant, and the cooking wasn't near as good as his wife's, at that.

He thought she was just in a mood that would pass by morning, but when morning came the good wife kept right on pounding her ear, and he had to go out to breakfast, too, and his pancakes were cold, and that made him pretty sore.

This went on for several days, and the apartment, usually spotlessly neat, got quite untidy. The beds were left unmade. The dishes she used for her own light snacks were left unwashed. Things were at loose ends, generally, around the place, and the wife spent practically all her time in a chair at the window, reading detective novels.

Clothes, Maid and Movies Her Price

Finally our friend asked her her terms for a settlement of her strike. She said she wants a maid. She said she wants to see at least three movies per week, a considerable advance over the one per month he had been granting her. She said she wanted to see a theatrical show once every two months, and to have one meal out per week.

She said she wants a new dress and a new hat every six months, instead of one every two years. She said she wants him to kiss her when he leaves for work in the morning, and when he returns home at night, and to tell her a little choice gossip now and then instead of subsiding into gumpy silence the minute he hits the door.

She said she wants to visit a night club once a year. She said she wants to see the Bronx Zoo and the Aquarium, and stroll in the park on Sundays, when the weather is nice.

She said she wants him to inquire at least once every three months as to how she feels, and permit her to get her teeth cleaned annually, and to go to a beauty parlor twice a year and get all sharpened up.

She said she wants at least a $20 bank account in her own name, and no beefs when the household bills are submitted to him. She said she wants a new radio, although our correspondent assures us that the one they now have is quite adequate in getting all the stations he likes.

He says he's doesn't mind giving in to her demand for morning and evening kisses, but he deems most of her other terms excessive. He says it costs him enough to get his own teeth cleaned, and he foresees a great hazard in the beauty parlor, because it may make her look so nice she will think of other places to go.

But, there she was on her sit-down strike when he wrote us the letter, and he wants to know if we think he can get anywhere by applying to the courts for a writ of mandamus to make her stir about.

We are no lawyer, but we think not. We think the best thing he can do is to settle with her before her contemplations by the window bring fresh demands to her mind. Indeed, we strongly urge the settlement.

We can see that a lady as resourceful as this one may suddenly hit upon the idea of forming all the housewives in the United States into a union, and then calling a general sit-down strike, and where would we be then?

We would be behind the 15 ball. There is no more room for the objects of sit-down strikes behind the eight ball.

MILTON BABY'S BODY FOUND IN QUARRY

driven up in their chauffeur-driven machines.

Officials had previously expressed the fear that the child had wandered in the direction of the abandoned water-filled quarry or one of the holes near the Murphy home in Rose street.

Discovery of the body culminated an all-night search by nearly a force of 800 who scoured the surrounding densely wooded area.

Only a half hour before the body was found, the Rev. Ralph J. Gallagher of St. Agatha's Church, Milton, severely criticized the state's failure to fence in the quarry holes in that section.

"These holes should have been fenced in months ago," he said. "If they had we'd probably not be looking for the child today. These quarry holes are extremely dangerous, especially when located where children are apt to walk.

PRAYS ALL NIGHT

"The state department of public works or whoever may be in charge of remedying this situation should take cognizance of their presence not only in Milton but all over the state."

The mother of the baby, Mrs. Agnes Murphy, who is expecting another child within three weeks, was in her home. Grief stricken, she had been given a sedative. She had stayed up all night praying for her boy's safe return.

Earlier in the morning the father, with the child's pet dog, "Gyp," sniffing at his side, had plodded through the woods shouting:

"Joe! Joe!"

When the boy was last seen by his mother he was playing in his yard with the dog. Both were believed to have wandered away, although the dog was later found in the street near the Murphy home, on a path which leads to the quarry.

QUARRY DRAGGED

Dragging operations were started and grappling irons used in an effort to clear up the mystery.

The quarry is covered with a thin layer of ice. Neighbors, who aided in the search, brought to the attention of police two holes in the ice below the cliff where the trail from the Murphy home had ended.

While the first dragging operations produced only old tires, springs and rubbish, police said they would continue.

At the Murphy home, where the family has been living for only two months, the child's mother remained with their second child, Gerard, 13 months, and spent the night praying that her son would be found.

Police, many of them off duty and in plain clothes, joined in the search last night, preferring to give up attending their annual police ball in the hope they might find some trace of the child.

15 POLICE AID

A force of 15 officers remained on duty throughout the night, refusing to abandon the hunt until dawn, pointing out that the chilly temperature might be harmful to the child if he was out in the open.

Today their ranks were re-inforced by almost the entire personnel of the department.

The 200 members of the Blue Hills Civilian Conservation Corps camp also joined the hunt as well as some two-score members of the Milton American Legion Post, scores of volunteers and officers of the Metropolitan police.

While the bulk of the searching party was ordered to comb the woodland thoroughly, several officers were detailed to drag the waters of the abandoned quarry near which the footprint was found.

The water at that point is 100 feet deep, and equipment more extensive than that in the possession of police is necessary, officials explained. The extra equipment was to be pressed into service today.

DOGS USED

Two Dobermann Pinschers were utilized in the search, and one of them followed a scent from the child's clothing to a point short distance from this quarry.

The other dog followed the scent only a short distance and then lost it. Both were to be used again today in the hope they can pick up the missing boy's trail.

Investigation along the route followed by one of the Dobermann brought the information from Mrs. Mary Schupe, who lives in Lyman road, a quarter mile from the Murphy home, that she saw a child, answering the missing boy's description, shortly after the approximate time he disappeared.

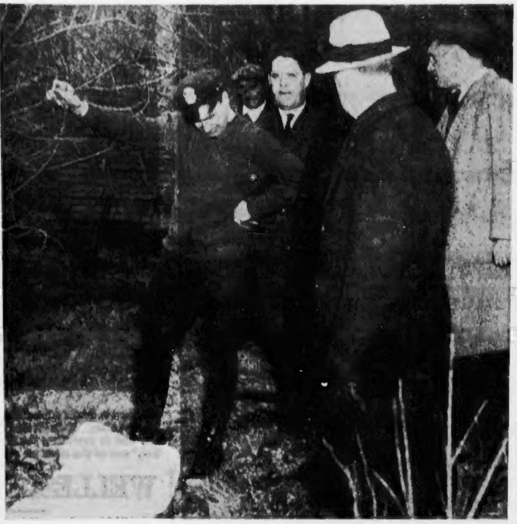
She said the boy and his puppy wandered down the lane, which leads to the quarry and that some time later the dog returned alone.

One of the Dobermanns followed a scent from this point for a short distance in the direction of the quarry but then lost it.

Connery Asks Radio Probe

Washington, Jan. 14 (INS)—A Congressional investigation of radio was proposed in a resolution introduced in the House today by Rep. Connery (D) of Massachusetts. He urged creation of a special seven member committee for this purpose.

Father's Grief as Quarry Gives Up His Son



(Picture from International News Photograph Service)

A dramatic picture made a moment or two after Gerard Murphy (hatless) identified the body of his 27-months-old son, Joseph, who was found dead today in a Milton quarry, a short distance from his home. Officer Joseph F. Duggan is bent over the lifeless form, which is wrapped in sheets. Milton officials, who had expressed fear the boy had wandered to the water-filled pit, are also shown.

T. F. Curley Files Bankruptcy Plea

Voluntary petition for bankruptcy—listing liabilities of $51,603 and no assets—was filed in Federal Court today by Thomas F. Curley of 512 Talbot avenue, Dorchester, associate commissioner of labor and industries.

In his petition Curley stated that most of the indebtedness listed was due to court judgments rendered against him. His position with the state draws a salary of $4000 a year.

Man's Friend

Hornell, N. Y., Jan. 14 (AP)—Philip Sturgess discovered a dog who was a perfect guard for his automobile, he's sorry to say.

Sturgess parked his car. When he returned, he found it occupied by a strange dog which belligerently refused to let him open a door.

Police had to remove the animal before Sturgess could drive away.

WPA Group Off For Washington

On their way to press a demand for better federal relief payments, nearly two score Boston Works Progress Administration union members left for Washington today in a chartered bus.

Arriving in Washington the Boston delegation will join in a national demonstration to be staged by the Workers' Alliance of America.

EAST BOSTON FIGHTS MORE LICENSES

More than 200 East Boston residents, mostly women, stormed the Boston licensing board today to protest against granting three liquor applications.

Led by Captain William Donovan of East Boston station and the Reverend Thomas A. Garaghan, pastor of Sacred Heart Church, the East Boston residents vigorously opposed further licenses in that section.

Captain Donovan told the board arrests for drunkenness had increased during the past two years and that his division was already overflowing with liquor establishments.

The petitioners John Cparaco, seeking a seven day all-alcoholic license at 200 Bennington street, through his counsel withdrew his application and John Collins who sought a license for 81 Meridian street, also notified the board of his withdrawal.

FAILS TO APPEAR

The third petition, that of Filomena Parzialle, of 329 Meridian street, was heard by the board, but the petitioner failed to appear. Decision was taken under advisement.

Father Garaghan told board members that the issuance of further license in East Boston would be a disgrace to residents of that community.

"Captain Donovan had told the board of conditions in East Boston," he declared.

TOO MANY PLACES

"There are too many saloons and liquor establishments over there now. If this continues it will mean that the children will be the ones that will suffer later and is bound to have a reflection upon their morals—and God knows we have fine children in our parish."

Other objectors included Representatives Thomas E. Barry and Frank W. Irwin of East Boston, Carl Bowman, president of the Eagle Hill Association, Rev. George W. Warren, president of the East Boston Ministers Association and George F. Murphy, of Lexington street, a resident of East Boston for more than 60 years.

Mrs. Elizabeth Pigeon, ex-member of the Boston school committee and a native of East Boston, sent word to the board of her objection.

AUTO STRIKE PARLEY HALTS, STILL IN DEADLOCK

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 14 (AP) — Governor Frank Murphy's strike peace conference between General Motors representatives and leaders of the United Automobile Workers of America recessed at 1:50 p. m. today without reaching a basis of settlement.

The conference will be resumed at 3 p. m.

Governor Murphy and the conferees said they had agreed to withhold comment pending further developments.

Asked whether the representatives were displaying a conciliatory attitude, the governor only reiterated that "there will be no comment at this time."

The conference began at 11:48 a. m. after the men had been closeted in the executive chamber for an hour, the union representatives emerged and went into separate session with their "board of strategy" which had accompanied them to the capital from Detroit.

RECESS UNEXPLAINED

The union men had just returned to the executive chamber, where the governor and the General Motors representatives waited, when the recess until 3 p. m. was announced.

There was no announcement of the purpose of the interruption. Nor was there any indication whether progress was being made.

Governor Murphy had requested representatives of the conflicting groups to meet him "without condition or prejudice," to seek "an immediate and peaceful termination" of the strikes which have thrown 114,000 General Motors wage earners out of work.

Even as the men sat down behind locked doors additional National Guard troops ordered out by the governor reached Flint—"hot spot" of the strike—to assist civil authorities in maintaining order.

HOPES FOR PEACE

There was no fraternizing as the representatives of opposing sides in the dispute met outside the Governor's office in the State Capitol. The leaders had "nothing to say" as they filed through the double doors, and there was no intimation as to how long the conference might continue.

The Governor hoped that in this face-to-face meeting the leaders of corporation and union would arrive at a basis for peace negotiations which hitherto have been blocked by opposing stipulations. General Motors declined to negotiate until "stay-in" strikers vacated their positions inside the plants; the union asked written guarantees that the corporation would not attempt to remove equipment or resume operations.

Unusual precautions were taken to assure privacy of the gathering. The entire executive suite was cleared of visitors, on orders of Governor Murphy. Newsmen and camera men were sent into the halls, and even the outer doors were locked.

PLEA FOR ARBITRATION

A delegation of Flint business men presented to the Governor a petition bearing the names of 11,000 persons, described as being employes of General Motors, pleading for swift compromise and settlement of the strike.

After approximately an hour the conferees divided temporarily into two groups. Representatives of the union went into a separate office to confer with their "board of strategy," which alone is empowered to act for the U. A. W. A. in the dispute.

Governor Murphy and the General Motors officials remained in the executive office awaiting their return.

In another part of the Capitol State Senator William Palmer, Flint, Democrat, said he would favor a recess of the legislature, pending a strike settlement. A flood of petitions and requests to legislators, he said, interfered with normal work.

The majority floor leader of the House, Representative Joseph C. Murphy, Detroit Democrat, proposed that the state set up a three-member permanent strike arbitration board, empowered to hold hearings, subpoena witnesses and investigate labor disputes.

Automobile Deliveries May Halt in 3 Weeks

Detroit, Jan. 14 (AP)—Continuance of the present strike situation in the automotive industry will mean a complete suspension of General Motors deliveries to dealers in about three weeks, it was indicated in authoritative sources today.

Heavy demand greeted the introduction of all new models throughout the industry last November. When the strike in General Motors plants developed each of the corporation's units had more unfilled orders on hand than at any time in the last decade with the possible exception of the 1929 boom period.

Far behind on deliveries, General Motors had stepped up production schedules in all its units. It was planning a January output of 224,000 cars and trucks. Instead of this volume the aggregate for this month, said W. S. Knudsen, executive vice-president, will be about 72,000.

"By the end of next week," he said, "production will be entirely dried up."

St. Louis Motor Plants Operate Despite Strike

St. Louis, Jan. 14 (AP)—The management of the St. Louis Chevrolet-Fisher Body plant announced operations would continue today and as long thereafter as possible in the face of a strike called here by the United Automobile Workers of America.

Delmond Garst, secretary of the local union of the United Automobile Workers, estimated that 3500 employes went on strike at the two units yesterday as a part of the organization's nation-wide movement to obtain recognition as the collective bargaining agency for General Motors employes.

Sheehan Crime Squad to Remain

Captain James T. Sheehan will continue in command of the police department's crime squad and the campaign against vice in Boston will be pressed, Police Commissioner Joseph F. Timilty announced today. He added that the squad will be increased next Monday.

The announcement came as a "morning after" headache to number pool chieftains who, according to report, gathered at a "victory" party last night in a Back Bay hotel.

The party was in celebration of a report that Capt. Sheehan was to return to Roxbury station, his former command.

Seek Boy in Harbor

Search for the body of missing Chester Harris, five-year-old Cambridge boy, shifted to Boston harbor today. Police said they believed it possible the missing youngster fell into the Charles river and was carried down stream by the current.

BROOKLINE VICE PROBERS QUIZ JEAN PARKER

Jean Parker, who figured in the Garrett investigation in Boston and has been in the limelight on other occasions, has made a deposition regarding conditions in Brookline, Assistant District Attorney Harold J. Smith of Norfolk County said today.

Smith, during the absence of District Attorney Dewing, is preparing evidence for submission to a special session of the grand jury, on January 27, regarding reports of police protection for law breakers in Brookline.

The assistant district attorney admitted having talked with Miss Parker and indicated she would be a witness before the grand jury.

THREATENED EXPOSE

Miss Parker's acquaintance with several police officials was revealed during the investigation of Oliver H. Garrett, Boston vice squad leader, who was later jailed.

Four years ago, after paying a fine in Roxbury court, she went direct to Boston City Hall, hinting she would make a statement about police, but Mayor Curley was out of town and the matter ended there.

Prosecutor Smith also revealed his investigators are seeking another woman, now reported living in Brighton.

POLICE QUESTIONED

Eight more Brookline policemen were quizzed today by Smith and his investigators at his office in Dedham, folowing the questioning of five oficers yesterday.

Whether Police Chief H. Allen Rutherford will be quizzed before the grand jury session, which takes place January 27, remains an official secret.

Divorced Man Out to Reopen Contest

Worcester, Jan. 14—Frederic C. Nichols, former Fitchburg banker jailed for embezzlement, today in a petition filed in Worcester Probate Court, sought to reopen the case on which his wife obtained last July a divorce for cruel and abusive treatment while he was in Plymouth House of Correction.

Nichols, whose wife, Mrs. Carolyn Nichols is ow in Pasadena, California, claims that she misrepresented phases of their married dife, that he rad no funds to obtain counsel while in jail and was unable to contest the case because he was in jail.

Kills Man, Self, Wounds 2 Others

Detroit, Jan. 14 (INS)—A man said to be Frank Shaner, 65, of Youngstown, O., today shot and killed one man, wounded two other persons and committed suicide in a rooming house, near here, police said.

Shot and killed by Shaner, police declared, was Edward Vankirk, 25. Wounded were Mrs. Mary Van Kirk Petrisor, 47, mother of Van Kirk, and her second husband, John Petrisor, 42.

2 MEN SEIZED IN POOL RAIDS

Number pool raids made by police today resulted in the arrest of two men operating in the South End.

Morris Goldman, 23, of North Russell street, was seized in a Purchase street lunch room by members of Captain James T. Sheehan's number pool squad.

While questioning him about 200 slips and $225 allegedly found in his pockets, Goldman broke loose from his captors and ran down the street. After a three-block chase he was caught by Sergeant Timothy Sullivan.

Louis Stepper, 19, of Genesee street, was arrested in the same lunch room after police allegedly found 60 horse play slips in his pocket.

New German Bible Rouses Church

Berlin, Jan. 14 (AP)—The new anti-Jewish version of St. John's gospel, recently published by Bishop Weidemann of the Evangelical church of Bremen, who describes Christ as "the first great opponent of the Jews," aroused new bitterness in church circles today.

The gospel, published in pamphlet form as part of the ambitious project started by Nazi translators two years ago to retranslate the Bible, added new fuel to Germany's long controversy over the nature of the vision of Christ.

Bishop Weidemann belongs to the group of theologians which holds Jesus was not a Jew, basing their theory on the fact his homeland was Galilee, which was regarded contemptuously by real Jews.

Vermont School Burned

Jay, Vt., Jan. 14 (AP)—This town of 300 persons lost its main school building today by fire of undetermined origin. The loss was set at $4500.

SECURITY LAW APPEAL ARGUED

Constitutionality of the Social Security Law was argued today before Justices James M. Morton, Jr., George H. Bingham and Scott F. Wilson, of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

George O. Davis of Waltham, a stockholder in the Boston & Maine railroad, appealed a decision of Judge George C. Sweeney of the U. S. District Court who refused to issue an injunction forbidding the railroad to pay the payroll tax.

Representing Davis, Attorney Edward M. McClennen argued that the privilege to employ labor existed before the government was brought into being, and therefore Congress had no right to impose a tax for the privilege of employing labor.

"If Congress can tax a man for the privilege of employing labor it can tax him for the privilege of having red hair," said McClennen.

"Is there any limit to the power of taxation?" asked Judge Morton.

"If there isn't," replied McClennen, "then if lightning strikes a man, he can be taxed for that, if he's still living. Employment of labor is not a privilege that Congress can grant and can never be legally so considered."

The law does not provide for the general welfare of American society and does not provide security, McClennen further argued. Attorney Jacob L. Kaplan assisted McClennen.

For the government, U. S. Attorney Francis J. W. Ford, Arthur L. Murray, special assistant to Ford; Thomas H. Elliott, representing the Social Security Board, and Charles E. Wyzanski, Jr., special assistant attorney-general, repeated arguments in defense of the law which were successfully presented in the lower court.

Attorney McClennen had sought to take his appeal direct to the Supreme Court last month, under a writ of certiorari from the circuit court, but the judges at Washington insisted on regular appeal procedure.

Convict Avino Calls Off Bridal; Blames Publicity

Unusually excited, even for a prospective bridegroom, Thomas Avino, 45, under sentence in the recent big narcotics cleanup, announced today he had called off his wedding because of the publicity.

His bride-to-have-been called on him in the office of U. S. Marshal John J. Murphy at the Federal building today, and Avino told her he had changed his mind.

The girl is Miss Sadie Wood, 39, of Huntington avenue, Back Bay.

Avino then turned to a reporter and repeated what he had told her. Miss Wood left after obtaining a pass to visit Avino tomorrow at East Cambridge jail. He will shortly be moved to a Federal penitentiary.

The story of the intended marriage became known late yesterday when arrangements were made for applying for a waiver of the five-day law. The wedding had been scheduled to take place this afternoon.

"I'll never again go through such a scene as occurred yesterday after the new got out," said Avino.

"Boom! Boom! That's all I heard. Everywhere I looked I saw nothing but photographers. Such a scene! I never went through such things before in all my life.

"One morning paper had me crying. Such piffle! Imagine me crying over marriage when I'm going away to jail."

SAFER FLYING FIELD URGED

Los Angeles, Jan. 14 (INS)—While investigators sought an explanation for the latest air transport crash in which two persons lost their lives and 11 went to hospitals, three with serious injuries, a movement was launched to move the terminus of commercial aviation lines to the municipal airport.

Crash of the Western Air Express liner on a ridge 10 miles from the mountain-ringed Union Air Terminal at Burbank, Tuesday, following the wrecking of a United Air Lines plane in the same mountains Dec. 27, precipitated the campaign to move the terminal away from San Fernando valley.

Thompson Talk Harvard Feature

An impressive address on the subject of modern radio broadcasting was delivered to the University Extension class at the Harvard business administration session, by J. Bain Thompson, Yankee Network executive, of Boston.

Mr. Thompson stressed the striking point that the Civil War might well have been averted, if President Abraham Lincoln might have projected his personality and plea for preservation of the Union, by means of radio. He is the father of Newcomb F. Thompson, radio editor of the Boston Evening American and Sunday Advertiser.

Scientists Report:

Scotland Drifting Toward Ireland

Glasgow, Jan. 14 (AP)—Scotland was reported today by an official of the Glasgow observatory, to be drifting toward Ireland—and America—at the rate of more than eight feet a year.

Thomas R. Tannahill, a member of the staff, said their calculations showed the mainland had shifted westward 600 feet in the last 70 years.

England, he explained, has not joined in the movement and, consequently, Great Britain is apparently "bending in two."

Describing the observations which led to the discovery, Tannahill said:

"In 1865 Glasgow's longitude west of Greenwich was 17 minutes 10.55 seconds.

"This value was accepted as correct until radio made possible the regular transmission of Greenwich time signals.

"Our observations now show, however, our longitude is in the neighborhood of 17 minutes 11.25 seconds west of Greenwich—the difference represents a real change in longitude."

"Were Scotland accompanied by Greenwich in its meanderings the prospect would not be quite so alarming, but unfortunately Greenwich is being left behind.

"This must be taken to indicate Britain is attached to Europe only in the neighborhood of the channel, and is turning slowly somewhere in Kent so that the northern part of the island is moving westward while the south remains stationary."

Asserting repeated rechecks showed no error in the calculations, Tannahill said whatever the explanation for the situation, it was "far too startling to accept without further investigation."

Harvard Men Find Earth Shell Changes

By Associated Press

Dr. Kirtley Mather, professor of geology at Harvard, today described as "extremely important to the entire science of geology" observations at Glasgow of a "drift" of Scotland toward Ireland.

Somewhat similar phenomena, he said, were under observation in Greenland, Iceland and Scandinavia.

"We have been suspicious," he said, "that there were changes in longitude at several places on the surface of the earth which would indicate a slow movement of the earth's outer shell.

"The Glasgow observations may mean something of great significance. They do not surprise me for it is right in line with things we are discovering."

Southfield Death Suspect Arrested

Charged with manslaughter in connection with the death more than four months ago of Nicholas Prendergast of Southfield, William S. Powers of the same town was arrested by state police today.

Prendergast's body was found in teh water under a bridge last Auggust 27, and a medical examiner reported his death the result of a blow on the head.

Police said Powerse and Prendergast had fought twice the night before Prendergast's body was found.

4 POWERS BAN VOLUNTEERS IN SPAIN'S WAR

By the Associated Press

Italy and Germany renewed their handclasp today. France, agreeing to meet the Nazi halfway in solution of their economic and political problems, took steps also to do her part in stopping foreign hands in Spain.

Col. Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, the huge and be-medalled man who has the functions of Germany's prime minister, talked in Rome with Benito Mussolini and King Victor Emmanuel.

They told him Italy's friendship for and collaboration with Germany had not cooled because of the Italian agreement with Great Britain on the Mediterranean status quo.

Italy, it was intimated further, was taking action to shut off volunteer enlistments in Spain pending a general, workable, international neutrality plan.

BAN ON VOLUNTEERS

France fell in line. Her cabinet decided to ask legislative powers to stop French volunteers from going to Spain, the powers to be used only in collaboration with other nations.

German and Italian volunteers are fighting with Spain's Fascist insurgents; French, Russian and some British zealots are defending Madrid for the Socialist government. Britain has invoked an old act to keep her own men at home.

Premier Leon Blum of France also was understood to have agreed to undertake economic negotiations with Germany without first getting political assurances for the Reich. That removed the main stumbling block to a Franco-German trade rapprochement.

On the war front, Madrid's defenders, with words of pity, paraded a Fascist prisoner through the streets. Noncombatants streamed out of the besieged city. Fascists at the threshold of Madrid reported five French volunteer battalions had been rushed up for a counter-attack by the government defenders.

SHIPS FOR REBELS

Two Fascist spies were executed by Basques in the north of Spain. German warships freed the crews of two Spanish government steamers, seized as "reprisals" for detention of a German freight cargo. The ships themselves have been ordered turned over to Spanish Fascists.

Spain's government, now at Valencia, worried about the vulnerability of the Mediterranean coast. Valencia and other shore points have been attacked from the sea and air by the Fascists.

Back in Germany, the re-armed Reich launched her first new destroyer—quietly and without ceremony.

Britain ordered a naval inspection of Spanish Morocco on invitation of the Spanish insurgent authorities there, although acknowledging there was now little reason to believe earlier reports of a German incursion.

British Warship Checks Up on Germans in Spain

London, Jan. 14 (AP)—Great Britain ordered officers from the destroyer Vanoc to begin a tour of Spanish Moroccan coastal points today to determine to her own satisfaction there were no German troop preparations in the territory.

Authoritative sources indicated, however, they were certain the Spanish zone would be found free of foreign influence.

5 French Battalions Reported Aiding Reds

With Fascists, Outside Madrid, Jan. 14 (AP)—Fascist officers quoted government prisoners today as reporting five French battalions from the Socialist international brigade have been rushed from the El Escorial-Guardarrama front for an attack in the Madrid sector.

The foreign troops were reported massed at El Pardo Park, ready to be spread along the whole front west and northwest of the capital.

Rebel Prisoner Forced To Parade in Madrid

Madrid, Jan. 14 (AP)—A pale Fascist prisoner described as both a "damned rebel" and a "poor, deceived youth," was paraded through Madrid today as thousands of noncombatant residents rushed to safer eastern territory.

The captive was taken in a government assault on insurgent positions near northwestern University City.

Fascist Spies Executed By Red Firing Squad

Bayonne, France, Jan. 14 (AP)—Bernabe Aguirre and Felix Ruiz, Spanish Fascist spies convicted of sending wireless information to insurgent bombers, were executed today by a firing squad, Bilbao reports declared.

ACOSTA UNPAID FOR SPAIN SERVICES

FLIER IRATE OVER TREATMENT

Nearing New York, where G-men are awaiting his arrival to question him about enlistment of himself and other American aviators to fight in Spain, Bert Acosta, famous transatlantic flyer, issued the following formal statement from the S. S. Paris through his lawyer, Col. Lewis Landes, of New York, revealing the airmen have been refused payment for their services.

By BERT ACOSTA

(In a statement issued through his lawyer, Colonel Lewis Landes, in New York)

New York, Jan. 14 (US)—Captain Gordon Berry and myself, as well as my other associates, are all happy to be out of Spain. Mixing in the affairs of that country, or any other European country, is a mistake, as Berry, Freddie Lord, Eddie Schneider and all the rest of us learned from bitter experience.

War is hell, and we've got to keep out of it. No one over there trusts the other, and an outsider is just a sucker.

When we decided to go to Spain I remembered vividly the way Americans had formed the famous Lafayette Escadrille.

Everyone knows what a fight I had to keep my chin up during the depression.

My friends know how I was on my "uppers" because I had been prohibited from flying commercially in the United States.

HAS $1150 COMING

I am getting too old to be a hero and I was merely going to Spain because of the inducements that were offered.

It was the only visible means of support I could see available to me at the time.

I am familiar with no work other than that of aviation as I have devoted all of my life to aeronautical activities, beginning with the days when I was associated with Mr. Glen Curtiss.

None of us has been paid anything for our services in Spain.

We have instituted a law suit to recover what is due us but it is doubtful whether we will ever be paid.

At the rate of $50 a day, the Madrid government owes me about $1150, exclusive of the cost of my passage back to New York and the other expenses which I have incurred.

WARNS OTHER AMERICANS

None of us will probably be paid but we will not begrudge the fact, nor will we ever be sorry we went over, if the mere publication about the true facts concerning conditions over there serves to keep other Americans out of foreign entanglements.

When I heard that our presence in Spain might be considered an embarrassment to the United States, and a probable violation of neutrality, we all made up our minds to get out, pay or no pay.

If our trip to Spain has served to focus attention to the need for more stringent laws on neutrality and results in the enactment of such legislation, we will all be happy.

PLEDGES ALLEGIANCE

I believe the experiences of myself and associates in Spain have not been in vain.

We have all become thoroughly familiar with aviation activities of many of the European countries, and our services will be available at any time to any branch of our government for information that we have, based on our said experiences.

I also want it definitely understood that none of us ever swore away our allegiance to our country. We would never do this, under any circumstanaces.

We will be glad to co-operate with the government in any way to prevent other Americans from going over to Europe.

Face Prosecution For Serving Spain

Washington, Jan. 14 (US)—American volunteers in the Spanish civil war have been warned their service is "unpatriotic" and renders them liable to criminal prosecution upon their return.

Acting Secretary of State Moore issued instructions for the warning on advices from Mahlon Fay Perkins, counsel-general at Barcelona, that 76 American recruits had passed through there in recent days, presumably to join the Socialist-Communist International column defending Madrid.

Meantime, the army high command disclosed Bert Acosta has accepted an invitation of Major-General Oscar Westover to give the army air corps chief a personal account of his experience with the Socialist-Communist air force.

'He's Using My Name,' Says Lieut. Allison

New York, Jan. 14 (US)—Lieutenant William Allison, commander of the naval air base at Floyd Bennett Airport, revealed that an aviator flying with the "Foreign Legion" of Spain's Red forces has mysteriously been using his name in Spain.

Recent dispatches from Paris listed Allison as among the 18 American fliers fighting with the Spanish Socialist-Communist forces.

Lieutenant Allison made a formal announcement explaining that he has never been in Spain.

La Follette Hit In Proposed Bill

Madison, Wis., Jan. 14 (US)—Speculation is rife here on whether Governor La Follette can maintain a whip hand when legislation comes up on the ouster of Dr. Glenn Frank as president of the University of Wisconsin.

Members of the Senate announce they will sponsor legislation which would make similar ousting impossible. This, it was argued, would make it difficult for the Governor to get a bloc of regents who would do his bidding as it was charged they did when they ousted Dr. Frank.

HURLEY CHECKS PAY-ROLLS IN SAVING PLAN

Income tax assessor, and Hurley is receiving $4080 as an assessor. Murphy, McDonough, Smith and Desmond have the same rating as Burrell, but the salaries vary.

Approximately 225 persons in the state service, appointed on the basis of non-competitive civil service examinations, are being discharged by aloishment of the positions they hold.

Among this number are 25 truck inspectors in the state department of public utilities, as well as several who were formerly members of ex-Governor James M. Curley's official family, including Supervisor of Motor Equipment and Machinery Charles Manion, Railroad Inspector Joseph Coppenrath, Assistant Secretary Joseph McAllister of the state department of public utilities, and Frank E. Riley.

More than 100 employes of the state department of agriculture, it is reported, such as mosquito inspectors, are due to be dropped and many others in the several departments.

The exhaustive scope of the examination of the payrolls being conducted by Governor Hurley is seen when it became known that he plans to invite the various county commissioners to appear before him.

It was revealed by the governor that the new council is carefully scrutinizing warrants submitted for payment for services contracted in 1936 and have held several up for further study.

Two warrants calling for payment of $27,000 for property taken for the Newburyport turnpike and $20,000 for property in Revere, are among those held up, it was further disclosed.

The governor, pending the appointment of members of the council to the various committees, such as those on pardons, State House, etc., appointed the entire council as a committee on finance, with Lieutenant-Governor Francis E. Kelly as chairman.

OUSTER TO GO ON

The governor had nothing more to say with regard to the decision of Frank L. Kane, associate commissioner of public works, to resist removal from his position other than to repeat that ouster proceed- would go forward in a legal and orderly manner.

A definite reduction in state expense was accomplished during the session when the governor suggested that in the future the customary luncheons at state expense on council meeting days be discontinued.

The governor played host to the council yesterday but it was agreed that in the future each member would pay for his own meal. Last year, extra sessions and lengthy meetings brought a total of approximately $2400 to the state expenses for the council luncheons.

NEW FINANCIAL VALUES

Economies at Massachusetts State College can also be effected without injuring its efficiency and service, the governor said during a meeting with the college trustees, whom he automatically heads by virtue of his position.

In the wake of this pronouncement State Auditor Thomas Buckley recommended that the business and financial affairs of the college be removed from the trustees and placed under the supervision of the State Department of Education.

DORCHESTER BOYS CONFESS 16 BREAKS

Unfolding an amazing admission of vandalism, two Dorchester boys, 11 and 13 years old, today confessed to a series of 16 breaks including two downtown offices, three restaurants, two stores, six Brookline houses, two schools and a church.

As police of the Warren avenue station, who made the arrest, listened to their story, the youngsters, calm and somewhat defiant, said they started their career after reading detective stories and watching gangster movies.

They were picked up by Patrolmen James McCann and James Carney, who were chasing two suspicious looking men across the railroad tracks near Wellington and Claremont streets, South End.

POLICE FIND "HIDEOUT"

Losing the two men after a chase, the officers discovered the youngsters hiding near a fence bordering the tracks. This spot, they later told police, was their "hideout."

According to police, the boys confessed to entering the offices of the Bedford Manufacturing Company on Beach street by smashing the front door, knocking the lock off the safe, ripping up the telephone, and escaping with a lone pair of shears.

They broke into the offices of the Novelty Shoe Corporation on Essex street, found the safe door open, but trays locked. The trays were ripped open with iron bars and $350 in cash taken.

Forcing the rear windows of two Harrison avenue restaurants, they escaped with a large supply of food, cigars and cigarettes. Police said they also admitted entering the Saunders Hardware Co. store on Stuart street, where they got a small amount of cash from the cash register.

They attempted to break into the Joy Young Chinese restaurant on Harrison avenue, but were unsuccessful, they allegedly told police.

After smashing the window of a Harrison avenue sewing machine shop, they left because they couldn't find anything to their liking, according to police.

14 ROOMS RIFLED

In the John J. Williams school, Groton street, South End, they gained entrance, they told police, through a window of the fire-escape on the third floor.

They rifled all 14 rooms, even to pupils' and teachers' desks. They secured some personal property of teachers, but, leaning toward vandalism, they strewed papers all over the building.

In one of the rooms they started a fire which burned out, however, before causing much damage.

They also broke into the Franklin School of Waltham street, South End, where they looted the rooms of pens, pencils, erasers and a quantity of ink.

Forcing the side door of St. James' Church on Harrison avenue, they cleaned out the collection box and took a box of candles, some of which were found in the Williams school, police said. This theft had not been previously reported.

While they confessed to six breaks in Brookline houses, only one had been reported. Mrs. Melvin Johnson of Woodland road, wife of the dean of Boston University law school, told police of the theft of $7 from her handbag.

R. I. Dog Racing Opposed

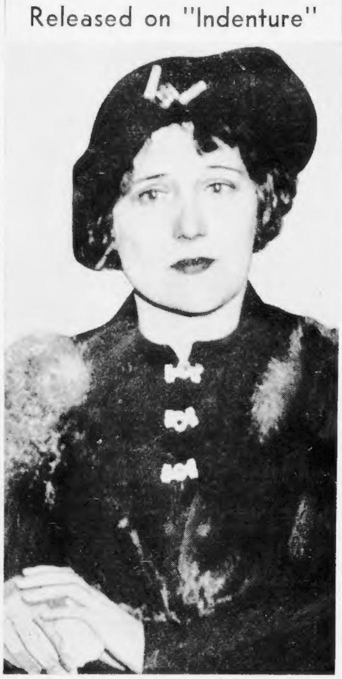
Providence, R. I., Jan. 14 (AP)—Governor Robert E. Quinn said today he is opposed to establishment of a dog race track in Rhode Island.

A Dangerous Business

Lowell, Jan. 14—Edward J. Thibeault, 37, of Dracut, proprietor of a Lowell shooting gallery, accidentally shot himself through his left side today with a .22 caliber target rifle he was cleaning.

An anti-tetanus injection was to be administered at St. Joseph's hospital.

Released on "Indenture"



(Picture from International News Photograph Service)

Mrs. Grace Prior, 37, of Brighton, who was released from Sherborn Reformatory after serving only six months of an eight-year sentence for the fatal shooting of George M. Frame of Beverly.

Mrs. Prior's Release Defended by Lyman

Foley and Chief Probation Officer Henry C. McKenna of Suffolk superior court said they were not consulted and had never heard of such disposition of a prisoner. Foley does not contemplate any inquiry, however, as the matter is out of his hands.

Commissioner Lyman said:

"The gist of the law is that women inmates may be released on indenture to do domestic work and that they are still serving time in the community, supervision being by the officers of the institution.

"A contract is signed by the individual who is employing the inmate, and also by the commissioner and the inmate, and is usually witnessed by the superintendent or some other official at the reformatory for women.

LIKE ENGLISH PLAN

"In some respects this system of release for the serving of time in the community is not greatly different from the English license system.

"After a check up of cases December 12, 1935, made at my request by Dr. Miriam Van Waters, superintendent of the Reformatory for Women, she stated in part:

"'I do not like to use the words "success" or "failure" over such a short period of time, but it is significant to note that 97 per cent of the 120 cases indentured since 1932 are self-supporting and apparently causing no trouble to the public authorities.

"'To accomplish this result, 24 of our staff officers are supervising cases in addition to their institutional duties.'

4 WOMEN OFFICERS

"This is a much higher record of successful adjustments than under parole releases. We have only four women parole officers covering all the women paroled from the reformatory.

"It should be further noted that, if an inmate leaves the person to whom she is indentured, it constitutes an escape, just the same as if she escaped from the institution itself.

"In the case of Mrs. Grace Prior, after several interviews and finding out what I could do about her case, with all the surrounding circumstances, I came definitely to the conclusion that the best interest of everyone would be served by indenturing her to her brother, who is a state trooper and who has an excellent reputation as an officer.

"I know he felt that there would have been no difficulty if it hadn't been for his leaving his target gun at home, and loaded, and that, therefore, he would be particularly careful in the supervision of his sister.

CASE FOLLOWED

"The case has been followed carefully since she started serving indenture.

"She suffered greatly in the reformatory from hallucinations. The prison doctor examined her and her condition was called to my attention.

"If she had been kept in prison, we felt the ends of justice would not have been met. She suffered terribly, and we all agreed that what has been done was the course to follow."

Judge John M. Gibbs, the judge who sentenced Mrs. Prior, said he did not know that she had been released on indenture.

INDENTURE LAW

The law on indentures, section 85 of Chapter 127, reads as follows:

"The commissioner may, with the consent of a woman serving a sentence in the reformatory for women or in a jail or house of correction, and with the consent of the county commissioners if she is in a jail or house of correction, contract to have her employed in domestic service for such term, not exceeding her term of imprisonment and upon such conditions as he considers proper with reference to her welfare and reformation.

"If in his opinion her conduct at any time during the term of contract is not good, he may order her to return to the prison from which she was taken."

A former member of the parole board said indenturing of prisoners was nothing new, but that it had seldom been done in recent years. He said it could not be considered the same thing as parole.

Asked for an interpretation of the reference to a contract, in the law, he said he understood it to mean "for hire" and that the indentured prisoner would get the compensation.

30 MILLION U. S. SAVINGS PLAN OF BROOKINGS

By WILLIAM S. NEAL

International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Washington, Jan. 14—The nationally known Brookings Institution today submitted a partial governmental reorganization report to the Byrd Senate committee with recommendations estimated to save $30,161,000 a year.

The report, first of several to be made, was in striking contrast to that of President Roosevelt's committee proposing a reorganization plan to promote efficiency but not claimed to cut costs.

Chairman Byrd (D) of Virginia, of the Senate reorganization committee, hastened to explain that the reports of the two committees do not conflict despite their apparently opposite proposals.

"Upon the President's invitation I have discussed the matter with him and was advised by him that the recommendations of the Senate committee for abolition and consolidation might be used effectively to supplement his own investigation," said Byrd.

ELIMINATE DUPLICATION

The Brookings Institution, which investigates governmental and economic questions, was financed chiefly by Senate and House reorganization committees. They provided $28,000 of funds, while the institution supplied $20,000 from its trust account and received $2000 from the President's committee.

The first partial report, made to the Senate committee, proposed:

1—Consolidation of Federal Housing Administration and the Home Owners Loan Corporation, with the elimination of duplicated personnel and expenses.

2—Transfer of Commodity Credit Corporation to Farm Credit Administration.

3—Transfer of liquidation of Reconstruction Finance Corporation, whenever terminated, to other existing agencies.

4—Transfer lending activities and assets of Public Works Administration to Treasury Department.

SAVING OF 30 MILLIONS

The estimated savings of $30,161,000, Byrd stated, would be made in agencies employing 25,000 persons at annual operating costs of $60,000,000—a 50 per cent saving.

In suggesting transfer of Public Works Administration to the Treasury Department, the institution directly opposed the proposal of President Roosevelt and his own committee that a department of public works be set up.

Throughout its reports, which may not be completed for several weeks, it will recommend use of existing agencies, rather than Mr. Roosevelt's plan, which would group 100 agencies in 12 cabinet departments.

Blast Victim Dies

Danbury, Conn., Jan. 14 (AP)—Virgil Osterhout of this city died today in Danbury Hospital of burns suffered in an explosion at the Danbury Rough Hat Company.

GOODWIN SEEKS BAN ON AUTO LEGAL GROUPS

Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin filed a bill at the State House today which would prevent any organiaztion from contracting with any person to furnish legal services for future violations of the law.

The bill is aimed at automobile associations offering legal services to members.

Goodwin also filed an amendment to the law which will require persons involved in automobile accidents resulting in death or injury to file a report with police in cities and towns with organized police departments, and with state police where no organized force exists.

The present law requires only a report to the Registry of Motor Vehicles.

MAINE WEIGHS RUM SALES TAX

Augusta, Me., Jan. 14 (AP)—A liquor sales tax bill, similar to one vetoed by former Governor Louis J. Brann (D.) last December, was ready for presentation today to the Maine Legislature as a source of revenue for old age pensions.

Speaker George E. Hill said the bill would be given to both branches immediately, with a view to enacting it without delay.

The bill was speedily passed by the House to be engrossed.

The measure provided for a 10 per cent tax on all liquor store sales from Jan. 18 to June 30, inclusive. It would provide funds for pensions from Jan. 1 to June 30.

Tax money would be paid into the treasury and contributed by the comptroller to the state contingent fund from which, in turn, the pensions would be paid.

The bill carries an emergency preamble making it effective upon passage.

King Square Bank Names Officers

Timothy F. Ahern formerly a member of the licensing board of the city of Boston, was installed today as president of the King Square Co-operative Bank, following the annual stockholders' meeting of the institution. The following officers were elected:

President, Timothy F. Ahern; vice-presidents, Elliott V. Martin, J. Harry Carey, John E. Sullivan; treasurer and clerk, Frank H. Lamont; assistant clerk, Joseph C. Torne; directors, Timothy F. Ahern, J. Harry Carey, Edward W. Foye, Chester W. Hardy, Terrance P. Gallen, John J. Lamont, Peter F. Lamont, Alexander J. McGillivray, Philip McMorrow, Edward O'Hearn, John E. Sullivan, Joseph Torno and Frank H. Lamont.

Sore Throat Pains
DUE TO COLDS
Eased Instantly

1. Crush and stir 3 Bayer Aspirin tablets in ⅓ glass of water.
2. GARGLE thoroughly — throw your head way back, allowing a little to trickle down your throat.
3. Repeat gargle and do not rinse mouth, allow gargle to remain on membranes of the throat for prolonged effect.

Just Gargle This Way with Bayer Aspirin

Here is the most amazing way to ease the pains of rawness of sore throat resulting from a cold we know you have ever tried.

Crush and dissolve three genuine BAYER ASPIRIN tablets in one-third glass of water. Then gargle with this mixture twice, holding your head well back.

This medicinal gargle will act almost like a local anesthetic on the sore, irritated membrane of your throat. Pain eases almost instantly; rawness is relieved.

Countless thousands now use this way to ease sore throat. Your doctor, we are sure, will approve it. And you will say it is marvelous.

Get the real BAYER ASPIRIN at your druggist's by asking for it by its full name — not by the name "aspirin" alone.

Murder Without Profit

Killer Confesses To N. Y. Police

New York, Jan. 14 (INS)—Major Green, Negro porter, was held without bail for further hearing on Jan. 21 when arraigned today for the bathtub murder of Mrs. Mary Case, 26-year-old Queens housewife, who was found beaten and strangled in a bathtub in the Jackson Heights home.

District Attorney Charles P. Sullivan of Queens county declared Green said he went to the Case apartment to wash windows, but with the intention of stealing something, and that he hit Mrs. Case on the head when she tried to make him leave.

He was arrested when his fingerprints were found on the door of the bathroom.

Green will be arraigned today, and later—about the same time that Mrs. Case is being buried at Lancaster, Pa.—the Queens County grand jury will be asked to indict him on the murder charge.

The Negro was vague with regard to some of the details, but it was said he declared he was the only person involved. He fixed the time of the murder to about 2 p.m. Monday afternoon. The body was not discovered until the slain woman's husband, Frank Case, a hotel executive, returned home four hours later.

Green and his wife were both employed in the apartment building, he as a porter and odd job man, and she as a cleaner in the Jackson Heights Bachelors' Club. Last summer he was accused of stealing lingerie and jewelry from the Case apartment, but was not held.

ENOUGH EVIDENCE

Police said even if Green had not confessed, his conviction of the murder would have been certain because of the strong chain of circumstantial evidence, starting with the vital fingerprints, and including a piece of Mrs. Case's hair on his bloody shoes, possession of a shirt taken from the Case apartment and identification as his property of a pair of trousers found in the incinerator of the building.

Shortly before Green confessed, police added to this evidence a suit of clothes and a pair of cufflinks stolen from the Case apartment.

When Green began to wilt after hours of high-pressure grilling and monotonous denials of "not me, boss, not me," police said he finally blurted out:

"She stepped away from me as I advanced on her. I grabbed her by the throat and she went down. I hit her with the hammer."

His complete confession as given out by police follows:

"I was going up to wash the windows on Monday and at about 11 o'clock in the morning I rang the bell. Mrs. Case looked through the peep-hole and I asked her if she wanted the windows washed. She said yes.

"She was unlocking the door while she was looking at me and I went in and I began washing the windows. She was doing something else—I guess she was in the kitchen—and I began looking around.

"There was some stuff. I thought I could take it.

"Well, Mrs. Case came out and caught me at it and she started to yell at me and I jumped at her.

"I grabbed her and when she continued to fight she got to scratching me up. We were moving around all the time.

"I guess we got in the kitchen and I picked up the hammer. It was laying there. I didn't bring it in with me.

"She stepped away from me when I picked up the hammer. Scared-like. But she was yelling and I grabbed her by the throat and she went down.

"I hit her with the hammer.

"I lost my head and I hit her a lot. She was bleeding. I didn't know what to do but I couldn't leave her lay there like that and so I picked her up.

"I got blood all over myself. She was bleeding so. I carried her into the bathroom and I turned on the water.

POSSIBLY ALIVE THEN

"Maybe she was alive, I don't know. I couldn't tell. I watched her.

"The water was filling up and all of a sudden the doorbell rang and somebody opened the door and I jumped up.

(It probably was Ben Weisberg, the laundryman, delivering the laundry, if Green is correct in his time estimate.)

"I took the white quilt from the bedspread and I threw it over the bathtub because I didn't want anybody coming in the apartment and seeing her like that. But whoever it was went away.

"I turned off the faucet when the tub was full and I went to the closet and took out a blue suit. I was all bloody so I changed the pants and took off my shirt and got out another one.

"NO MURDER INTENT"

"I don't know anything about the wedding ring and the other stuff.

"I took the hammer and the pants and I went to the incinerator across the hall and threw them down it. Then I went back to work down the hall.

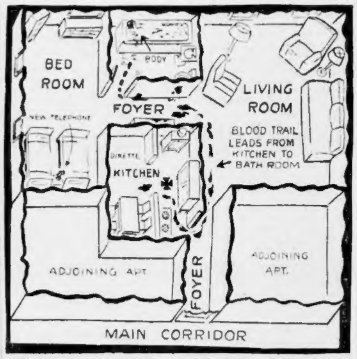
"In the afternoon, about 4 or 5, when I got some clothes to wear that fit me, I took the blue suit to a cleaning shop to get cleaned. I was going to call for it in a day or two.

"They said I went into the apartment meaning to attack her, and I killed her when she fought. That isn't the truth. I didn't want to harm her. I don't know how it happened. I can't explain.

"I don't know if I'm sorry or not. I don't. I can't tell how I feel."

Victim in Bathtub Slaying

Another pose of Mrs. Mary H. Case, a former Pennsylvania woman, who was beaten to death in her Jackson Heights, New York, apartment. A Negro porter has confessed the killing.



This diagram shows the layout of the Jackson Heights honeymoon apartment which was the death scene of Mrs. Case. After being beaten with a hammer she was thrown into a bathtub. When she was found the bathtub was full of water.

4 CHILDREN BURNED TO DEATH IN N. Y. FIRE

Ogdensburg, N. Y., Jan. 14 (AP)—Four children were burned to death and a fireman was seriously injured when flames destroyed a small frame house here early today.

The victims were Violet, 15; Rita, 11; Jean and Martha, 3, all children of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Petrillia.

A son, Bobby, aged 10, was rescued with night clothes aflame as he stood against the front door trying to escape from the flaming home.

He was picked up and carried to safety by Mrs. Nina Williams, a neighbor who said she discovered the flames about 6 a. m. when she let her pet cat outdoors for an early morning airing.

Bobby was taken to a hospital in a critical condition.

Mrs. Williams said she found the lad pounding his fists against the front door, trying to escape. She said she broke a window in the door to open it and snatch him to safety.

The father, operator of a small restaurant and taxi business, had gone to work when the fire broke out.

Firemen said they discovered Mrs. Petrillia standing, delirious, on the sidewalk outside her home.

She was in no condition to explain how she escaped from the home, but neighbors theorized she discovered the flames, ran from the house and found it too late to return for her youngsters.

After Release on Bail

Morris Keezer, on right, leaving Suffolk Court after he had been released on bail for hearing January 28. Keezer surrendered earlier in the day on a larceny charge involving $11,000. Dr. Max Klein of Dorchester brought the charge in connection with a stock investment.

KEEZER DENIES STOCK CHARGE

Charged with theft of $11,200 in the organization of a stock company, Morris Keezer, 29, of 20 Egmont street, Brookline, pleaded not guilty in Municipal court today after surrendering to bank squad detectives at police headquarters.

He furnished $2000 bail and had his case continued to January 28 by Judge Timothy J. Carr. He was arrested on a warrant issued yesterday in Municipal court.

The complainant was Dr. Max Klein, of Dorchester, who practices dentistry in Cambridge. Dr. Klein charged that he invested $11,200 in a stock company allegedly being organized by Keezer, that he did not regain his investment when the company was not organized.

Family Found Starving in Canada Wilds

Rimbley, Alta., Jan. 14 (Canadian Press)—Three little girls, members of a family of nine found starving and all but unclothed in the bitter cold of Alberta's brush country, were taken today to a hospital in an effort to save their lives.

The sisters, Lillian, three; Herta, seven, and Alvina, 11, daughters of Gustav Zins, were in a serious condition. Lillian had pneumonia; the others, intestinal influenza.

With four other children, they were found by a doctor and a Royal Canadian mounted policeman in a hovel, with only ragged feather ticks to protect them from the cold.

Clings to Fur Coat, Gets Cell Lodging

A wayfarer, who said he was a bit down in his luck but not so far down he couldn't cling to his fur coat, gave Police Lieutenant John A. Mulvehill of the Waltham police a decided shock today.

"Well, sir, what can I do for you?" the lieutenant asked as the fur-coated transient confronted him at police headquarters.

"I am, Chief, a bit down in my luck," the fur-coated one replied. "Could I have a night's lodging?"

The caller explained that the fur coat was a prized possession, with which he did not want to part under any circumstances so the lieutenant agreed he was entitled to a night's rest in a police cell.

BOSTON after DARK

By

GEORGE HOLLAND

IN THE NEUTRAL TERRITORY offered their good customers by well-ordered night clubs your correspondent met up early today with young John Roosevelt of the First Family . . . Young John is supposed not to be keen about newspapermen, and the feeling isn't altogether one-sided . . . He made a playful half-pass, the gesture that Jimmy Cagney used to use, in the direction of this fragile jaw, pulling his punch with good timing . . . "Another one of you newspaper guys!" was the greeting . . . In tow of his mates, it looked for a minute as if it might be a bad spot for your envoy . . . But, the kid's face lighted with a broad grin . . . "Oh, well! There's a columnist in my family, too." . . . We drew aside from a group . . . Young John is so tall that a six-footer tilts his head to meet his eyes . . . But he is only tall, not gangling . . . Young John knows a lot of the answers . . . He knows what "off the record" holds in significance to reporters who try to abide by the conventions, and young John employed the pledge at least three times in a half-hour's chat . . . "I don't mind my name being used—that goes with the heritage," he said . . . "But I've been out on Saturday nights with perhaps 50 girls since I've been at Harvard . . . I think it's a tough break for a girl to be mentioned simply because she's been nice enough to go out with me . . . I'm not ready yet to consider marriage." . . . Young John then switched to Franklin, Jr., the brother nearest his age . . . "Frank lost 20 pounds in the hospital . . . I talked with him tonight, and he's regaining his weight . . ." Then he told a story concerning his father on the day King Edward abdicated . . . "That's a grand story, with a lot of interest," your correspondent pleaded . . . "It will be printed surely by someone. What about it!" . . . "It won't be written until father puts it in his memoirs," was the answer to that.

GEORGE HOLLAND

So aside from the supposition that President Roosevelt is planning to write his memoirs young John met the enemy successfully . . .

Maria Badaracco, the Somerville dancer, was a hit last night at her Hotel Westminster Blue Room debut . . . Rube Bernstein, the company manager of "Pride and Prejudice," was reminiscing today about the patriarchs of his family, most of whom he admires . . . "But Grandpa Bernstein was sort of a sucker," he mused . . . "He arrived from Russia in Montreal in 1846 and encountered some racial antipathy. So he changed his name from Solomon Vodlavaski to Isidore Bernstein" . . .

Eddie Collins and Bill Evans arrived in Boston together last night on the Merchant's Limited from New York . . . Don Humbert is employing 19 assistant musicians now, and is doubling between Boston and Lynn . . . Councillor-to-be David Breen of Ward 3 is working for himself "behind the stick" of his Broadway tavern . . . Business has been trebled . . . An inspired accordion leader, young Joe Abramo is attracting so much attention at the Copley Square Hotel's Old Bar that Bobby Burns, Tom Dorsey's lawyer-business manager, visited there incognito last night . . . Abramo leads an odd combination consisting of himself and his "squeezer," a base-fiddler, a guitarist and a fellow who plays the mandolin . . . Ethel Shepard, a Boston girl who appeared three weeks ago at the Metropolitan Theater, broadcast with Fred Allen Wednesday and has been offered a contract by Universal . . . Her father was Sam Shepard, of the vaudeville standard act, Corbett, Shepard and Donovan . . .

Joe Kirby, the downtown taverntist, and Earl Boardman, the whiskey magnate, have made up . . . They returned last night from the Boardman acreage on the Cape, but not in the Boardman plane . . . A night flight from New York to Boston, during which Kirby lost five pounds and two false teeth, caused the breach . . .

Suspicious Happening:

One of the confirmed horse-players has been in a bad losing streak. He had chalked up his 46th straight loser . . . Then Whopper's track-breaking victory at Hialeah yesterday found him on the winning-side of the sheet again.

The player had $10 on Whopper's nose. And what do you think was his book-maker's reaction?

"Can you imagine this? Soandso won a bet!" the bookie marvelled. "Say, Bennie, when you pay that guy off tonight give him a saliva test!"

Once Over Lightly:

The Boston Theater-Treasurers Club, at their annual meeting next Sunday at the Westminster, will elect the following slate of officers: Hugo Lundgren, president; Thomas Waters, vice-president; Edward F. Spellman, recording-secretary; Samuel Stern, financial secretary, and John Morris, treasurer . . . For the first time in years, the box-office men are planning a show or banquet for this Spring . . . Levaggi's Uptown floor-show, with Jans and Lynton and Marcia Harris featured, will cavort tonight for the Traffic Club at the Copley Plaza shindig . . . John D. Rockefeller, Jr., was a Boston visitor so quietly, and with his way so beautifully greased, that few besides his doctor knew he was in town . . .

Gielgud's "Hamlet" will play at the Shubert, and for one week only beginning February 8 . . . And here's a booking just set in New York, and well enough in advance . . . Dwight Deere Wiman's new musical play, by Rodgers and Hart who wrote "On Your Toes," will open at the Shubert, March 26 . . .

Exclusive:

Lee Dixon, featured player of Warner Bros.' "Gold-Diggers of 1937," has been married secretly for nearly a month to his one-time dancing partner, Jean Geary . . . The wedding took place in California . . . Partners for several years, the couple split in 1935, and met again when, by a coincidence they were booked by a New York agent into the Cocoanut Grove here.

Portray Two Decades on Screen, Stage

Sally Rand's fan dance is one of the highlights of "Vogues and Vanities," the new stage show offered RKO Boston patrons.

Jean Arthur is a girl of the Early West in "The Plainsman," which tops the bill that opened at the Paramount and Fenway today.

Gala Films Coming to Loew's

Pointing to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's record-breaking musical hit, "Born to Dance," as the year's bellwether, H. M. Addison, division manager of Loew's Northeastern theaters, promises State and Orpheum movie-goers a schedule of film attractions for 1937 "that is little short of mammoth, gigantic and colassal."

To prove it, he lists some of those programmed for the next few months.

Next in the list of January pictures is "After the Thin Man," the new William Powell-Myrna Loy sequel to "The Thin Man," followed by the much-heralded Garbo-Taylor "Camille," from the famous Alexandre Dumas love drama.

Then, Merle Oberon and Brian Aherne will be seen in "Beloved Enemy," and following that, "Captains Courageous," one of the year's most important offerings, will unreel.

"Captains Courageous" is the famous Kipling story which MGM is producing as a fitting successor to their spectacular "Mutiny on the Bounty." Freddie Bartholomew and Spencer Tracy are starred.

Another February offering will be "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney," in which Joan Crawford, William Powell, Robert Montgomery and Frank Morgan head a cast that reads like a Hollywood "Who's Who."

Next on the list of coming film attractions is "Parnell," lavish production based on the romance of the famous Irish patriot and the lovely divorcee, Kitty O'Shea, that figured importanfly in Ireland's fight for freedom. Clark Gable and Myrna Loy are co-starred.

Sigmund Romberg's "Maytime," musical co-starring Nelson Eddy and Jeannette MacDonald, with John Barrymore and a distinguished cast in their support, is also being readied for February release.

Following these there will be "A Day at the Races," with the Marx zanies; "Maiden Voyage," with Robert Taylor and Luise Rainer; "A Star Is Born," co-starring Fredric March and Janet Gaynor, and "Men Are Not Gods," with Miriam Hopkins.

'Plainsman' At Fenway, Paramount

Cecil B. DeMille's thrilling Western drama, "The Plainsman," which has just concluded a successful week's engagement at the Metropolitan, moves over to the Paramount and Fenway screens today. Paramount's comedy, "Easy to Take," is the companion screen feature for the week.

Gary Cooper and Jean Arthur, who were largely responsible for the spectacular successful "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," are co-starred in "The Plainsman." Cooper portrays "Wild Bill" Hickok and Jean Arthur "Calamity Jane," famous frontier woman who loved the silent, hard-fighting peace officer but could not have him.

Their romance is set against a background of the early West during the ten years immediately following the Civil War. Hickok, probably the country's first G-man, was sent West to discover who was selling guns to the Indians.

Charles Bickford plays John Lattimer, notorious gun-runner and John Miljan has the role of doughty General Custer. Others in important supporting roles are James Ellison, as "Buffalo Bill," his wife, Louisa, portrayed by Helen Burgess; "Broken Nose" Jack McCall, played by Porter Hall. In addition, there are 2000 Chenyenne Indians and 200 army cavalrymen and an equal number of horses.

"Easy to Take," co-starring John Howard and Marsha Hunt, in a behind-the-scenes radio romance. Howard, suave radio "uncle" who gives nightly talks to the "kiddies," so charms an elderly woman listener that she stipulates in her will that he is to be guardian of the nephew who is to inherit her fortune.

$15,000 Fee Proper, Attorney nsists

For 385 hours' work in a will case involving an estate of 250,000, his bill of $15,000 was reasonable and proper, in his opinio Attorney Bertram A. Brown of uincy testified in Norfolk probate court, Quincy.

He said he represent Mrs. Addie L. Dunham of Quiry in a successful legal fight to uphold her deceased husband's wi contested by a son.

Screen-Find in "Three Smart Girls" at Keith's

Songbird Deanna Durbin, Eddie Cantor's 14-year-old radio discovery, who makes her screen debut in Universal's "Three Smart Girls" at tonight's 10 o'clock preview at Keith Memorial Theater, is being hailed as Hollywood's screen-find of the year.

The lovely, sparkling-eyed youngster, who made a highly successful stage appearance here recently with "Christopher Columbus" Cantor, can act as well as she can sing, those who have been privileged to see her first picture insist.

Keith Memorial fans can make this discovery for themselves when the picture has its formal opening Friday.

"Three Smart Girls" is the story of three sisters, living on the Riviera with their mother, who learn that their wealthy father, divorced for ten years, is paying ardent attention to a renowed lady of exceeding charm.

Knowing that their mother still loves him, they rush to New York to save Daddy from serious entanglements. They even manage to have a count divert the designing beauty so successfully as to prevent their father from marrying her. All of it is ridiculously funny when it isn't uproariously laughable, according to advance Hollywood reports.

Deanna, Nan Grey and Barbara Read play the three girls. Binnie Barnes is the fortune-seeking temptress and Alice Brady her mother. Tay Milland, another recent cinema caller in Boston who made a pleasant in-person impression, is cast as the sweetheart of one of the girls who sets a snare for Binnie. Charles Winninger is the millionaire father. Mischa Auer impersonates the count; Nella Walker, the mother of the three smart girls, and John King, the fiancee of the second sister.

Deanna Durbin sings three songs in the picture, "Il Bacio," "My Heart Is Singing" and "Someone To Care For Me."

$3000 for Flowers

Salem, Jan. 14—Filing of the will of Mrs. Ella G. Emilio, of Peabody, for probate here revealed she had left a fund of $3000 which is to be used "forever" to provide flowers for the graves of her parents every Sunday from spring to fall and on Memorial Day and Christmas.

Music Hit by Local Boy

Local boy, John Scott Trotter, Nye Mayhew Orchestra pianist now playing in the Statler's main dining-room, is credited with the excellent musical score of Columbia's musical hit, "Pennies from Heaven," starring Bing Crosby, which opens at Loew's State and Orpheum theaters today.

Crosby, whose friendship with Trotter dates back to the days when the former was one of the Rhythm Boys of the Paul Whiteman outfit, suggested the assignment.

Trotter, who has toured this country and Europe with Hal Kemp's orchestra since graduating from the University of North Carolina, has played for the Duke of Windsor and his favorite brother, the Duke of Kent.

Board Studying Sunday Beer Plea

Members of the Boston licensing board have under advisement today the petition of Vincent Thomay, owner of a restaurant in Brook street, Brighton, to sell beer on Sunday.

During the hearing on the petition, police testified they visited the restaurant and found a length of bologna to be the only food in the place.

It's Here At Last, They Call It Art

Surrealism (Art) Arrives Here

Perhaps We're All Crazy, Though

This picture represents a group of students representing—er—well, representing. Take their words for it they are, left to right: Deception, A Thespian murmuring in a rice field, Neurosis, Suppressed Desire, Chained Libido, Personality. As one can see, each is attired in something or other. Carrying the unhappy situation still further, we find that four members of the group are Harvard students; one is a Radcliffe pupil, too modest to give her name, and one is from Katherine Gibbs School. So that leaves it this way: James Copp is "Deception"; C. M. Wing is doing the rice-field murmuring; Miss Claire O'Connell, the the Katherine Gibbs School is "Neurosis"; the modest Radcliffe girl represents "Suppressed Desire"; Rollo Park is "Chained Libido"; John Ladd is supposed to represent "Personality." Maybe it makes sense—who knows?

Surrealism, which is to art what Gertrude Stein is to literature, has invaded Boston in person and six of its exponents made downtown Boston hideous with a personal appearance as its representatives.

Mother Role Ready For Kay Francis

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Motion Picture Editor Universal Service

Copyright, 1937, by Universal Service.

Los Angeles, Jan. 14—We have been hearing that Kay Francis would star in "Mazurka" as soon as she returned from Europe, but until now Hal Wallis wouldn't verify it.

Louella Parsons

That's because the deal wasn't actually closed for this dramatic story which has already been filmed in a much discussed version abroad. Kay plays a mother role with Anita Louise as her daughter and Joe May of European fame will direct.

The story has all the strength of a "Madame X" with a more modern viewpoint and a smashing climax. The man in the case is a world famous musician who betrays first the mother and is killed by her when he makes advances to the daughter. Music will figure largely in the adaptation now being prepared by Margaret Levino and Jules [illegible]

Al Jolson is due to blossom out as a Warner Brothers producer. I almost said supervisor, but that word somehow isn't popular in our town. Anyway, Al will no longer be on the acting end but instead will tell his players how it should be done and that is much more difficult than doing it yourself.

This means that the "Bowery to Broadway" remake of the original "Jazz Singer" which was to have started Al will not be produced and neither will any of the other plays planned for Ruby Keeler's boy friend.

MADGE DECIDES PUNISHMENT FOR RODERICK

CHAPTER 700

RODERICK threw back his head and looked at me steadily as I asked him if he saw the justice of making him a virtual prisoner for the rest of the trip to New Hampshire, not to be out of sight or reach of some grown-up.

"Of course, I see," he said sturdily. "You ought to put handcuffs on me, and a ball and chain about my ankles. Then everybody would know how bad I'd been."

I had been under so tense a nervous strain in the last few moments that the rebound this fantastic though sincere speech almost made me commit the fatal error of laughing. But I ironed out my twitching lips just in time, and Roderick had no hint of my mirthful reaction to his suggestion.

"It'll be awful having Uncle Dicky know," he said, and I quickened my gaze, wondering if even subconsciously his spirits had rebounded to the point of hoping to get off that penalty. But there was nothing save resignation in his eyes, and I relaxed again as he went on.

WANTS PUNISHMENT

"But that's got to be, and I'm so glad about the rest. But I wish you'd punish me. I'd feel better."

"Let me think it over a minute," I [illegible]

WE BELIEVE young girls of today must be giving their eyes a lot of care and consideration. Nearly every one of them has nice eyes. Whatever the color may be, they are expressive and lovely to look at.

Beautiful eyes are always a [illegible] and attractiveness, and the best thing about [illegible] is we can all possess such beauty if we will [illegible]. The [illegible] so important. Dark eyes [illegible] just as [illegible] are healthy and expressive.

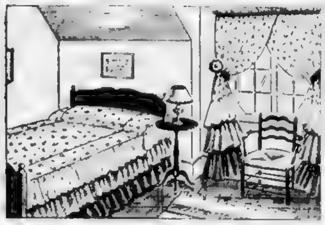
Dress Up the Bedroom



ISN'T this an enchanting style for bedroom draperies and spread? Because you can make them easily yourself, you can adapt them to fit your own personality.

Use a brilliant floral print in chintz, percale or lawn with three 15-inch ruffles [illegible] yellow, tangerine and [illegible] chintz for the curtains. The lining is of yellow and green stripe. The [illegible] the green tie-back is of green and tangerine ruffles with a yellow-covered button for the center. The spread has seven-inch ruffles.

Or do you want your bedroom to mirror your feminine [illegible]? Make the set in [illegible] organdies ranging from [illegible] shell pink to deep [illegible] for the bottom ruffle.

Or is your nature warm with just a touch of dignity? Use ivory chintz for the foundation, toast beige for the top ruffle, henna for the second, eggplant for the bottom.

A Dish-Washing Husband Favors Labor Union For Men Only

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

No man really loves a "drudge." She may be as useful as the kitchen sink, but there isn't any flare, mystery, or impelling attraction to her.

And, certainly, no man can feel the thrill of pride when he is compelled to introduce such a woman to a stranger as "My wife."

This is the conclusion I draw from the interesting letter I received today from a reader who signs himself, [illegible]

[illegible] You [illegible]

Whatever you think, put it on paper and send it to me. And I, in turn, will [illegible] the best of the [illegible] be at least entertaining.

Technique of Ruffs

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

When a declarer's trump resources are sketchy and when, in addition, he can see that he must ruff a side suit in order to establish it, good technique becomes indispensable.

It is difficult to prescribe a set formula for a hand that falls into this category but, generally, the [illegible] the necessary ruff before [illegible] declarer's hand is reduced materially in trumps.

The hand described below illustrates a very important principle of technique.

South, dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.

North:
♠ K Q 6 3
♡ A K 8 6
◇ A 9
♣ 8 7 4

West:
♠ J 7 5 4
♡ J 9 4
◇ Q 6
♣ Q 10 6 5

East:
♠ 10
♡ Q 10 [illegible]
◇ J 3 2
♣ K J 9 3 2

South:
♠ A 9 8 2
♡ 7 2
◇ K 10 8 7 5 4
♣ A

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ◇	Pass	1 ♡	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	4 N T	Pass
5 N T	Pass	6 ♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

South's bidding was [illegible] Although he had [illegible] rebiddable suit of his own. Therefore he chose a one-over-one force rather than a jump take-out. Moreover, in order to leave the spade suit open so that his partner, if he held four spades, might show them at an easy level he bid one heart.

South was over-anxious in showing the spades before rebidding his six card diamond suit but [illegible] final contract was reached [illegible]

West opened the fourth-best club and East's King went to declarer's Ace. Ace [illegible] played. The deuce of spades was led to dummy's King and a spade returned, East of course showing out. Since East had dropped the ten on the first trump lead declarer, on winning the second with the Ace, now had an established finesse against West's Jack but unfortunately this position did him no good since [illegible] established the diamond [illegible]

On the [illegible] lead of spades West [illegible]. Now [illegible] establishing the diamond suit. He led [illegible] the Ace [illegible] the King, then [illegible] a third [illegible] to East [illegible] ruff with dummy [illegible] club [illegible] West [illegible] ruffed the next diamond led by the declarer.

THE CORRECT PLAY

It made no difference who led [illegible] dummy's trump, [illegible] even [illegible] own hand and [illegible] several times.

The [illegible] wait to draw [illegible] trumps [illegible] then [illegible] the establishment of the diamond [illegible] of the one trump [illegible] a defender who [illegible] only one trump, making that trump on a ruff.

After this one trump lead declarer should have led the Ace and King of diamonds, then ruffed a [illegible] would do West no good to force dummy [illegible] with his seven-spot.

After the diamond suit was established, two more rounds of trumps ending in declarer's hand would have made the contract iron-clad.

AUSTEN LAKE

IN [illegible] GAMES and the [illegible] Professor Aaron Bart of C[illegible] states, admits [illegible]

For the poker addict he points out that the chance of filling a straight flush is 1 in 52,000; a full house, 1 to 6000; three of a kind, 1 to 50; two pairs, 1 to 20. And with the freckled dice cubes he says that a person has two chances in nine of winning on the first throw, though only one in six of hitting the seven and one in 18 of making an 11. And he adds that in his opinion there are no dice that are not "loaded," whether artificially or by the run of fate, nor is there any roulette wheel which is perfectly balanced, nor any set of cards which, to the microscopic eye, is not "marked." And that, over a protracted period in any gambling game, the "house percentage" will soak up the small player's capital. In short, from an economist's standpoint and aside from any moral issue, he finds it does not pay to flirt with the fickle lip-stick hussy known as Miss Fortune.

CONTRAST IN SPORTSMEN

EDDIE MACK, THE EGLESTON SQUARE philosopher and sport producer, explains, in his curbstone poesy, what is ailing the fight business. Says he, if one asks a professional wrestler who may have gone through an hour's barbarism in East Saugus for a $2.00 cut of the box office, how the crowd was, he says "Ah goot." The treatment, dressing facilities, publicity, is always "Ah goot," with never a grippe or ache.

"[illegible]," said Sir Mack, "ask any fighter or his manager, after [illegible] a $[illegible] [illegible] how [illegible] were [illegible] you always get a [illegible] and a [illegible]. Everything was [illegible]."

WASHINGTON STADIUM DREAM

THOUGH BOXOFFICE STATISTICS DURING the last few years have given clear and mournful indication that the sports stadia, including the high school and college arenas, the indoor athletic theaters and privately owned sport emporias, are more than sufficient for customer demands, a Pennsylvania Congressman is planning a bill to build a gigantic sport crater in Washington, which will seat 300,000. It is just possible that George P. Marshall, the erratic Redskins' angel, has been whispering in the gentleman's ear, trusting to recoup his Boston losses in Washington amid splendid surroundings provided by the tax payers.

O'Hara Opposed To Turf Union At 'Gansett

By DAVE WILSON

Hialeah Park, Fla., Jan. 14—Denouncing the American Turf Alliance as nothing more or less than a "brain child" of the old die-hard group of horsemen, Walter E. O'Hara stated in an exclusive interview to the Boston Evening American here this afternoon that he or Narragansett Park would take no part in functions of the new union of track operators.

"Inasmuch as I did not attend the meeting in New York, at which the formation of the American Turf Alliance was first discussed, I take this opportunity of expressing my reactions to this proposed group of race track owners and operators.

"I must admit that at first the real purpose of this organization puzzled me. It seemed to suggest a union of track operators, subject to a central control and I don't like that.

"I have had considerable experience with unions in other lines of endeavor. I have learned to my sorrow that union speed is invariably gaited to suit the slowest moving member. That made no particular appeal.

Works Alone

"Then it seemed there might be the idea of eliminating competition between the various racing associations with a limitation and reduction of purses and stakes. Personally, I couldn't agree to that. I am all for individual enterprise and modern methods.

"Let us bid openly and honestly for the things we consider will benefit most our own tracks. Let us bid high for the best horses and horsemen—let us offer inducements that will give our own patrons the best in racing.

"In racing as in any other business—and I prefer to regard modern racing as a business rather than to pose as a great sportsman and public benefactor—competition is the outstanding element that spurs us on to better efforts.

"But conversations during the past few days would indicate that I have a misconception of the proposed functions of the American Turf Alliance.

Enlighten Public

"I am now told the main purpose of this alliance is to establish a central publicity board, whose main reason for existence is for the purpose of enlightening and educating the public into the so-called higher flights of racing.

"I presume the average man in the street is to be thoroughly grounded into the mysterious figures of the Bruce Lowe breeding system, rather than into the mathematical intricacies of the totalisator.

"But even with that assurance I fail to appreciate my advantages such an organization could bring to me, an independent track operator in New England.

"Since the inception of Narragansett Park in 1934, I have maintained what I consider a highly capable publicity department. I believe the work of this department has played a great part in our success. It has studied our local conditions and mastered our local problems.

"It sense what the New England public seeks to know and supplies the necessary information—at the right time and in language easily understood.

"I for one would never consider disbanding my own publicity department and my business sense tells me it would be foolish for me to pay twice for the same job.

Public the Judge

"If I am wrong in my conception of this proposed publicity service—and if there is something else behind the formation of this American Turf Alliance—then I'd suggest this is the time to discard all hypocrisy and let us talk with the cards laid on the table face up.

"It is my conviction that this group would like to eventually develop a governing body that would have power to restrain such as Santa Anita and Narragansett Park from offering high stakes and purses and otherwise conducting their business so that the better horsemen and horses may be inclined to ship away from the older and reactionary tracks.

"I'll continue to run my own business and if I make mistakes the public will be my judges."

Five to Battle St. Anselm's

This Saturday evening will mark the first time in the history of the West End House that a college basketball team will play at the Blossom street gym, when the St. Anselm's five oppose the varsity.

Coach Metrick of the West End House has called two practice sessions this week to polish up on plays and to determine his starting lineup to go after the tenth win of the season.

Coach George Lee of St. Anselm's will bring his full squad to Boston, including Captain Leo Connerton, Bill Burton, [illegible] center John Spiroda, John Burke, Eddie Cullen and five other strong substitutes.

GRIMM Unable to MAKE TRADE

Chicago, Jan. 14 (INS)—Charley [illegible] yesterday signed a [illegible] to manage the Chicago [illegible] concerning trades [illegible] had hoped to consummate.

"I'm beginning to suspect all the other managers must have gotten together and cooked up a scheme to stop me," Charley said. "Every deal I've suggested has brought me the same response. Sure, they'll deal, but every manager I've talked to wants three men—Lee, French and Demaree.

"Some want all three, some two, and some only one. Well, I'm going to hang on to all of them. There's no use in trading if you can't help yourself."

Grimm said he planned to take 29 men to Catalina island for the spring training session. The group will be made up of 12 pitchers, four catchers, seven infielders and six outfielders.

25 Star U.S. Drivers In Midget Auto Title Hunt

By WALTER KILEY

There's a heap of trouble apt to be abrewing before tonight's first in a series of elimination tests to decide the national midget auto racing champion of 1937, is decided.

"I've been cracked up time and time again," he tells us. "I spent six months in the hospital. But like everything else, you become hardened and it isn't long before you forget little things like injuries.

"When I got into the game of racing I was looking for thrills. Before I was in it long it was in my blood. I couldn't let go even if I desired.

"Now it's my livelihood. As long as I can keep at the top I can have a pretty fair means of living. There's danger in it. But when your time comes it comes. I take all the necessary precautions. I have never driven more than 40 miles per hour in my regular driving in spite of the fact that I've gone better than 130 miles per hour in the big class car racing.

"I've never been given a ticket by the police for auto violations. I've never been involved in an accident.

"When it comes, however, to racing, I'll take my chances."

"I'm sure Marcum, Cramer and McNair will have a better year. We didn't buy them just for 1936, you know. We acquired them because we felt they'd eventually help bring a championship to Fenway Park and I think they'll live up to our expectations.

Much depends on our new outfielders, Mels Gaffke and Dahlgren. [illegible]

Here Are Rules for Skates Derby

All entrants in Derby must be amateur skaters. They must be bona fide residents of New England.

MIDGETS are those who will reach their 12th birthday the day of the race.

JUVENILES are those who will not have reached their 14th birthday the day of the race.

JUNIORS are those who have passed their 14th birthday, but have not passed their 16th birthday the day of the race.

INTERMEDIATES are those who have passed their 16th birthday but have not passed their 18th birthday the day of the race.

SENIORS are those who are over 18 years.

Contestants can enter ONE EVENT only.

(Entrants to all classes other than senior must be prepared to submit birth certificates.)

Team trophy entrants must enter name of club they represent in teams of five only.

YOUNG STARS GET CHANCE FOR GLORY

Local addicts of the ice game are likewise flocking in, thanks to the reopened entry list.

Jerry Healey of Broadway, Chelsea [illegible] and Albert Schah, of the suburban community.

These comparatively unknown competitors are the ones who make possible the success of the Derby. They are material for future championship teams.

So we say the more the merrier of the novice class, the better satisfied [illegible]

There are three more days before entries close. For your own sake, may we suggest that you fill your blank TODAY.

FARM COA[illegible]

Hello Everybody! This is Fred Hoey Speaking!

As we read of the extensive plans being made by all major league clubs to develop their farm systems it is refreshing to note that strong emphasis is placed on the subject of proper coaching.

In other words, where big league clubs own, or have working agreements with leagues in lesser classifications, they insist that the manager of that minor league team be properly equipped to coach the youngsters under his care and direction.

It is most essential that these managers or coaches, know how to make better ball players out of the youngsters on the roster by improving their work at the bat, on the mound and in the field.

It isn't every veteran player who can qualify for such a role. They may have been stars in their own right, but many of them don't seem to have ability to impart their knowledge [illegible]

Yes, sir, I think Bob has had a baseball in his hands ever since he's been old enough to [illegible]. When he was just a toddling youngster his ma could never get him out of the drug store in Des Moines without buying him a ball of some kind.

Mother Helped

"Bob's mother was always baseball minded and that helped him. She always had a lot of trouble arranging meals because the boy played catch every night after finishing the chores. He'd always say: 'You can always eat, but you can't play catch after dark.'

"But what gives me the biggest kick is recalling how people always thought I was nutty thinking Bob would be a major league pitcher some day. At one of our games one Sunday his mother heard a fellow say:

"'All old man Feller does is play ball with his kid. It's a shame the way he wastes time and money on him. He'll never be a ball player anyhow.'"

But Dad Feller said fingering the $[illegible] contract: "I guess I'm having the last laugh."

MOST HILARIOUS EXAMPLE OF THE sports "run-around" is that which Max Schmeling, the German glove fighter, has been given since battering Joe Louis to the deck last June. He went home with a contract to fight Braddock for the title in September of 1936. Immediately the fight financers began to phenagle. Jimmy Braddock came up with a convenient bone growth on his knuckles which failed to show in the X-rays, so that the September fight was postponed by a, shall I say, supine boxing commission. Schmeling stubbornly insisted he would wait.

Then a Saturday Evening Post story in which Schmeling was purported to have charged Louis with intentional foul blows, became a handy medium of intimidation. Louis threatened suit for $500,000 if, and when Schmeling next set foot on U. S. soil. He ignored the threat and came back to press his contract, finally getting a new agreement to battle next June. Immediately after his departure for Germany came the boycott move, supposedly started by anti-Nazi interests but suggesting the final trump card of the New York fight promoters who prefer the bigger public shakedown of a Louis-Braddock battle.

* * *

MUCH TO THE CONSTERNATION OF the clique which runs the New England A. A. U. through a "paper club" medium the newly elected national president, Jeremiah T. Mahoney, is taking steps to abolish all such vote-controlling units and turn local A. A. U. government over to bona fide groups which actively run athletic meets or have a genuine membership. It is the first sincere move to delouse the A. A. U. [illegible] Last March on the evening after the memorable Bruins Stanley Cup collapse at Toronto, Eddie Shore remarked: "All I want is one more year of hockey." Today he is as effective as ever though showing signs of brittleness. He says he doesn't remember ever having said such a thing, that he's good for three more years. [illegible] Jimmy Johnston, Madison Square Garden matchmaker, was making a frenzied survey of Boston fight haunts late yesterday to locate Bill Brennan, Al McCoy's manager, to offer him a New York fight date.

Today's Pilots of Models —Tomorrow's Model Pilots

Wing Commander's Note: This is the third of a series of articles designed to help model builders, especially beginners, written by Herbert K. Weiss, M. I. T. student of aero engineering and long recognized as a champion model plane flier and instructor.

By HERBERT K. WEISS

When we go outdoors with model craft, our problem becomes a great deal more complex than that dealing with indoor planes.

On some days almost any glider with reasonably good characteristics will soar out of sight.

[illegible]

In the latter case we have [illegible] to atmospheric [illegible] at the ground which is slightly lighter per cubic foot than air a little higher. Being lighter it tries to rise. Similarly if the air near the ground becomes warmer than the rest of the atmosphere above, its density becomes less and it tries to rise.

The air columns are baby cousins of whirlwinds and the air that [illegible] them upward is whirling as it rises so that a glider which enters the rising air and circles in the same direction and at about the same radius will be carried upward as long as the upward speed of the air is greater than the sinking speed of the model.

[illegible]

Rising columns of air may rotate in either direction so there is no [illegible] that a glider circling to the left will have a better chance of flying into a thermal than one which circles to the right. Incidentally these up currents [illegible]

Great Northern Priced at 97 1-2

Public offering of $50,000,000 Great Northern Railway Co. general mortgage 3¾ per cent bonds, Series I, is being made today at a subscription price of 97½, yielding close to 4 per cent to maturity.

Morgan Stanley & Co., Inc., which has purchased the entire issue, is handling the offering through a large sub-underwriting group.

Net proceeds from the sale of the bonds, together with cash to be furnished by the company, will be used to retire $61,028,000 prior lien bonds.

These consist of $10,185,000 Montana Extension first mortgage 4s, due June 1, 1937; a $10,000,000 issue of Montana Central Railway first mortgage bonds, due July 1 this year, and $40,843,000 St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba Railway consolidated mortgage 5s, to be redeemed July 1.

BANK CLEARINGS

5 P. C. Gain Reported in Week

New York, Jan. 14 (AP)—Bank clearings in 22 leading cities totalled $5,947,182,000 in the week ended January 13, Dun & Bradstreet reported today.

This was a rise of 5.0 per cent over clearings of $5,661,718,000 in the same week last year. A week earlier clearings were 2.7 per cent under the 1935-36 comparative.

The total at New York city was $2,759,808,000, virtually unchanged from that of a year ago.

Household Finance Offering Today

An offering of 5 per cent preferred stock of Household Finance Corporation, as part of a new financing and recapitalization program, will be made today through an underwriting group headed by Clark, Dodge & Co. and including Lee Higginson Corporation, Brown Harriman & Co., Incorporated, White, Weld & Co., Kidder, Peabody & Co., G. M. P. Murphy & Co., Blair, Bonner & Co. and others.

The preferred stock, of $100 par value and carrying the full quarterly dividend due April 15, is priced at $100 per share.

The total issue is 180,000 shares, of which 73,649½ shares will represent new financing by the company. Net proceeds to be received by the company from the sale of this stock will be used to reduce bank loans.

Rail to Buy Cars

Northern Pacific is in the market for 2000 gondola cars.

This is not an Offering Circular. The offer of these Bonds is made only by means of the Offering Circular. This is published on behalf of only those of the undersigned who are registered dealers in securities in this State.

$50,000,000

Great Northern Railway Company

General Mortgage 3¾% Bonds, Series I

Dated January 1, 1937 Due January 1, 1967

Interest payable January 1 and July 1 in New York City

Redeemable, at Company's option, in whole or in part (in amounts of $5,000,000 or more) on any interest payment date on 4 weeks' notice to and including January 1, 1942, at 105%, with successive reductions in the redemption price of 1% during each successive 5-year period to and including January 1, 1962, and thereafter at 100%. Also redeemable for the Sinking Fund on July 1, 1939, and on each July 1 thereafter to and including July 1, 1951, at 102½%, and on each July 1 thereafter at the redemption prices above set forth for optional redemption.

The issue and sale of these Bonds are subject to authorization by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

In the opinion of Counsel, these Bonds will be legal investments for Savings Banks in the State of New York by virtue of amendments to the New York Banking Law of April 6, 1929.

Great Northern Railway Company has summarized as follows certain parts of its letter dated January 11, 1937, describing this issue. The entire letter and Exhibits thereto contained in the Offering Circular should be read prior to any purchase of these Bonds.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE The net proceeds from the sale of these Bonds will be used, together with additional funds from the Company's cash resources, supplemented if necessary by short-term borrowing, to pay, with accrued interest thereon, $61,028,000 maximum principal amount of prior lien bonds, as follows: (a) at or before maturity on June 1, 1937, $10,185,000 principal amount of Montana Extension First Mortgage 4% Bonds, (b) at or before maturity on July 1, 1937, $10,000,000 principal amount of First Mortgage Bonds of The Montana Central Railway Company, and (c) upon the redemption at 101½% on July 1, 1937, $40,843,000 maximum principal amount of The St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba Railway Company Consolidated Mortgage 5% Bonds. Subject to certain terms and conditions, Morgan Stanley & Co. Incorporated has agreed to purchase these Series I Bonds at 95½% and accrued interest.

EARNINGS The following summary of earnings of Great Northern Railway Company for the years 1927 to 1935, inclusive, and for the 10 months' periods ended October 31, 1935, and October 31, 1936, has been prepared from the Company's Condensed Income Accounts, Exhibit 2 to the Company's letter, and is subject to the notes forming an integral part thereof (particularly the note which states that dividends paid by C. B. & Q. R. R. Co. were not fully earned in certain recent years) and to the information in and notes on the Statement of Profit and Loss, Exhibit 3.

*Loss.

The Company estimates that its fixed charges, based upon its capitalization after giving effect to this financing and to the retirement of said $61,028,000 maximum principal amount of prior lien bonds, will amount to approximately $14,900,000, which would have been covered by its reported Income Available for Fixed Charges for each of the above years except 1932.

SECURITY Upon the retirement of said $61,028,000 maximum principal amount of prior lien bonds, and after giving effect to this financing, there will be $249,422,400 principal amount of General Mortgage bonds outstanding in the hands of the public, $10,700,000 pledged and $1,300,000 in Company's treasury, all of which bonds will be secured, in the opinion of Company's counsel, by a second lien on 4562 miles of road, subject only to First and Refunding Gold Bond Mortgage, a third lien on 2209 miles of road, subject to prior liens, in so far as they attach, securing bonds in the principal amount (including the First and Refunding issue) of $128,750,909 (of which $77,600,515 principal amount will be outstanding in the hands of the public, $36,332,000 principal amount are pledged directly under the General Mortgage, $14,813,394 principal amount are pledged thereunder subject to pledge under prior lien mortgages, and $5,000 principal amount are held in Company's treasury), and a first lien on 580 miles of road; a first lien on $82,933,700 par value of the capital stock of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad Company; and a lien upon 21,813 units of equipment owned by the Company subject to the liens in so far as they attach of prior lien mortgages. The General Mortgage, under which The First National Bank of the City of New York is Trustee, permits the issuance of additional bonds thereunder for a wide variety of purposes as set forth therein, but does not permit additional bonds to be issued by the Company under prior lien mortgages. The General Mortgage permits the extension of prior lien bonds at any rate of interest to not later than January 1, 2000.

The foregoing is merely a brief outline of certain information contained in the Offering Circular dated January 14, 1937, and is subject to the more detailed statements therein. The entire Offering Circular should be read prior to any purchase of these Bonds. Copies of such Offering Circular may be obtained from only such of the undersigned as are registered dealers in securities in this State.

Price 97½% and Accrued Interest

Morgan Stanley & Co. Incorporated has agreed, on the terms and conditions set forth in the Purchase Agreement, to purchase these Bonds, when, as and if issued and accepted by it and subject to the approval of its counsel, Messrs. Davis Polk Wardwell Gardiner & Reed, and subject to authorization by the Interstate Commerce Commission of their issue and sale. It is expected that delivery of Bonds in temporary form, exchangeable for definitive Bonds when prepared, will be made at the office of Messrs. J. P. Morgan & Co. on or about January 29, 1937, against payment therefor in New York funds.

Morgan Stanley & Co. Incorporated is authorized in agreements with the Sub-underwriters to purchase and sell Series I Bonds, in the open market or otherwise, either for long or short account, for the respective accounts of itself and such Sub-underwriters, within the limits and during the period set forth in certain agreements referred to in the Offering Circular.

'MORAL' Example NEEDED

WHEELER TELLS N. Y. BANKERS

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Washington, Jan. 14—New York bankers were urged to set a "moral" example to other banks today by Senator Wheeler (D) of Montana, chairman of the Senate committee investigating railway finance.

During the committee's inquiry into the varied financial deals that brought the vast Van Sweringen railway empire into being, Wheeler charged that the Guaranty Company of New York, had failed to uphold its moral obligation as trustee for Van Sweringen corporation note holders on a $30,000,000 issue;

"These New York bankers," he said, "ought to stop financing or helping to finance these transactions which are not what they should be. If they won't stop, you can't expect all the fly-by-nights to stop, and you can't expect the other banks to follow if you don't set a moral example for them."

William C. Potter, chairman of the board of the Guarantee Company replied:

"You won't get any argument out of me on that point."

Wheeler sought to show that the prospectus issued by the Guaranty Company for the notes said the proceeds were to be used for real estate development work but that they were used to "bail out" speculative stocks of the various Van Sweringen holding companies.

This was denied by Potter and Joseph R. Swan, president of the Guaranty Company at the time the notes were issued. They claimed that the prospectus gave the Van Sweringen corporation "very broad powers" to use the money as they saw fit.

"This may be good thics," Wheeler said, "and it may be technically correct, but if it is I've got to change my ideas. When you fellows do such things what chance has the public got."

Telephone Inquiry

Washington, Jan. 14 (INS)—Presidential backing was assured for the Federal Communications Commission's investigation of the giant American Telephone and Telegraph Company today. Mr. Roosevelt requested a $350,000 appropriation to carry the inquiry until June 30.

HANEY ON TRADE

Building Outlook HOLDS PROMISE Of More Expansion

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics, New York University

New York, Jan. 14—Fairly complete December statistics of business now being available, it can be said that the year 1936 closed with a gain.

It can also be said that it closed with plain indications of entering upon boom conditions.

* * *

Take machine tool orders, for example. Even after allowance for the usual seasonal changes, the index for December made a new high. It was the highest for any month on the record which goes back through 1919.

The December buying of machine tools has been approximated only in early 1920, and the recent rise in the volume of orders is resembled by that in 1919.

As usual, this indicates that producers are anticipating increased demands for goods. It means, in time, a probability of overproduction.

But we can be fairly sure that until the machine tool orders themselves show a sustained decline, the expansion of business will not be terminated.

At present, the rapid gain in purchases of such machines is stimulated by high costs of production, by replacement needs based on long postponement and by rearmament activity at home and abroad.

* * *

Steel ingot production was below the November level, but that is usual. If we assume that each December should bring a larger output than its predecessor, on account of the growth of population, etc., last month had not yet caught up with December, 1928.

But the actual output in December, 1936, taken "as is," exceeded the output of any other December on record.

Pig iron production also gained more than seasonally. In fact, it again ran somewhat ahead of a normal relation to steel production; and that is another symptom which often appears in boom times.

Both iron and steel outputs are at average daily rates that are a little above normal.

Not unnaturally, too, blast furnace activity is entering a high zone where "danger" is written. It will be explained at this time, however, by (1) the long-delayed replacement of industrial and transportation equipment, and (2) the great and world-wide preparations for war.

* * *

Building "permit" data for December is encouraging in two ways.

First, they were up, instead of declining as they usually do at the year-end. (Perhaps the mild weather explains this.)

Second, they are still so low as to warrant some hope that further expansion is to be expected.

Surely the average monthly volume of permits during the years 1921-25 is not much, if any, above normal. But December permits (adjusted) were less than 40 per cent of that average.

Building may yet come along to take up some of the slack—if only labor costs and restrictions will allow it.

* * *

The sales of 453 department stores in 226 cities hardly maintained the November pace. In view of weather and strike conditions, however, they came nearer to it than expected and were 15 per cent above a year ago. The index was 92 per cent of 1923-25 average.

Railway carloadings fell down at the year-end because shippers waited for the lower rates to go into effect on January 1st.

CHANGE Is Economic NORMAL

STUDENTS HEAR RUKEYSER

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER
Copyright, 1937, by Universal Service

Painesville, Ohio, Jan. 14—Change is the new normal in the dynamic economic world in which we live.

To succeed in the world of opportunities unfolding before youth, it is necessary to be geared to flux, instead of being weighted down to immovable anchors.

I stressed these points tonight in a speech to the student body and faculty of Lake Erie College here, in a talk entitled, "The New Promise of American Life."

Unquestionably the chances for success for competent and confident youth are improving. There is an impulse in the business world to lift young and modern-minded men quickly to high executive posts. New needs, and a changing social conscience, are breeding a new type of business leadership in the United States.

Management is increasingly being divorced from ownership, and is becoming a profession in its own right. The job of the great manager is to balance the demands of workers, owners and customers.

As a symptom of the tempo of mercurial change in popular thinking in the United States, the shift in discussion in recent months has been from whether our competitive economic society could survive, to a technique for calming down boom tendencies.

Incidentally, though the promise of American life is very large, attainment of the near-term possibilities hinges on the capacity of government and business, on the one hand, and management and labor on the other, to find ways and means of working harmoniously together.

Obviously, in spite of the great opportunities to translate improved industrial efficiency into higher living standards for the people, prosperity cannot be builded if shut-downs of great industries become epidemic. There is no substitute for work actually performed.

From the standpoint of national bookkeeping, the shutdown in General Motors, representing about half the volume of the industry, can have far-reaching deleterious repercussions if long continued. The secret of recovery inheres in re-employing hitherto idle manpower. Unemployment through strikes tends to narrow purchasing power and to curtail volume.

METAL INDUSTRIES

Big Aid TO N. E. Recovery

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW

In recounting the feats of recovery of New England industries many observers both in this section and outside of it are prone to overlook the contributions of manufacturers of metal products and machinery.

All too few persons realize the importance of these great industries to New England. Accounting for 30 percent of the manufactured output, their well being is necessary for prosperity in this section.

The real importance of the metal and machinery industries is impressed on this writer by the current Dun & Bradstreet report on New England business conditions. It states that the metal industries are accounting for a large percentage of current production after having contributed a gain of 35 per cent last year. This performance, together with continued healthy conditions in textile and shoe and leather lines, warrants a cheerful view of the New England outlook for at least another month or two, if not longer.

* * *

The current talk and discussion of booms and the need for brakes if fears of a runaway expansion are to be quieted, may have unpleasant consequences for the silver bloc in Congress. At the same time those expressing orthodox monetary views may be in receipt of some unexpected support. This idea is bolstered by Washington dispatches intimating the Federal Reserve looks on silver purchases with disfavor. Possibly the board feels that continuing acquisition of the white metal under the Silver Purchase Act of 1934 is serving to aggravate the already difficult problem of excess credit. As a result, complete stoppage of purchases of silver or sterilization of them in order to prevent their adding to expansion of idle bank funds may be sought.

* * *

Notebook: Complete stoppage of silver purchases would, of course, be the choice of conservatives . . . The silk and rayon industry in Massachusetts is not only operating at a high rate but is leading all other lines . . . Employment gains are 75 per cent above the 1925-1927 average . . . Armour accumulated relatively heavy inventories in past months . . . And consequently is in an excellent position to take advantage of the rise in meat prices that is indicated . . . Action by Nickel Plate on accumulated preferred dividends is thought likely this year . . . Payment either by cash or by common stock or a combination of the two is probable.

* * *

Saying something bright and fresh or trying to about current movements of the stock market is next to impossible these days. The tape is telling its own story. One of heavy offerings and substantial bids. But the outcome to date has been a draw in almost all directions. Utilities and some specialties alone provide exceptions. The churning of stock prices cannot be viewed as healthy because it is not positive. It is all right to talk of bids matching selling orders, but the main point is that progress is missing. This, too, many traders and investors are overlooking. And until prices press forward on a broad front to establish new highs we will continue to prefer the safety of a partial cash position to the admittedly exciting stage of a crowded long account.

* * *

Ticker Ticks: Two factors are held responsible for the hesitant action of Western Union . . . First, the very high proportion of gross that must go to cover wage costs . . . Some set the percentage as high as 60 per cent . . . Which means Social Security legislation is going to be a heavy burden . . . Second, the likelihood of increased depreciation charges following a current engineering survey . . . Additional 1937 gains in consumer income are viewed as a bull argument on Sears Roebuck . . . Whose spring catalogue, incidentally, is expected to feature higher prices than was the case a year ago.

National Shawmut

At the annual meeting of shareholders of the National Shawmut Bank, President Bucklin stated in response to a shareholder's inquiry that the earnings of the bank for 1936 were approximately $2,500,000, which figure compared with [illegible] in the previous year.

Boston & Maine

Boston & Maine applied to ICC for authority to extend for two years short-term notes aggregating [illegible] now held by certain banks. The notes, which mature early this year, bear 4½ per cent interest.

AUTO Shares Flood TICKER

WITH GAINS OF 1 TO 3 POINTS

New York, Jan. 14—Automotive shares flooded the ticker tape with rallies of 1 to 3 points in today's stock market as prospects improved for settlement of the General Motors strike.

Offerings were plentiful in many other departments of the list, however, and near the fourth hour trends were rather uneven.

With a conference under way between General Motors officials and union representatives to seek means of effecting a peaceful conclusion of the present labor impasse, Wall Street sentiment appeared to be substantially improved.

The activity was pronounced at times, although there were a number of lulls in the proceedings when traders stopped to catch their breath.

There was a heavy turnover of low-priced utilities, but most of these failed to duplicate their Wednesday's forward shove. Selected steels followed the motors. Sugars were in supply. Some of the merchandising issues lost ground. Specialties were still favored.

Bonds and commodities shifted in varying directions.

Conspicuous shares on the recovery were Chrysler, General Motors, Hudson, Studebaker, Packard, Reo, Mullins Mfg., Kelsey-Hayes, Stewart-Warner, Murray Corp., Electric Auto-Lite, Hayes Body, U. S. Steel, General Electric, Du Pont, Crown Cork, Newport Industries, Container Corp., Omnibus Corp., Celotex and Loew's.

The majority of the rails were unchanged to a shade advanced.

Jobs, MONEY RATES Lag

By B. C. FORBES

Two queer developments are accompanying recovery: The disappointing rate of re-employment and the lack of response in money rates.

The former has been much more widely discussed than the latter.

Heads of banks at this week's annual meetings have emphasized that interest rates in the nation's financial metropolis are still almost as abnormally low as they were at the depths of the depression, while the federal government, states and municipalities are still able to borrow on phenomenally easy terms.

Here are current rates charged brokers and other large borrowers, on loans abundantly secured by collateral, and for other forms of credit:

	Rate P. C.
Call loans, Stock Exchange	1
Call loans, Curb Exchange	1½
Time loans	1¼
Commercial paper, prime	¾
Bankers' acceptances	¾
Rediscount rate	1½

Yields on government obligations range from the merest fraction of 1 per cent to less than 2 per cent for loans maturing within 10 years and to 2½ per cent on longer-term issues.

You or I cannot obtain loans in Wall Street at any such rates. Wealthy borrowers are granted very low rates by their own banks, but less favored individuals are lucky if they are not charged more than 3 percent on loans backed by plenty of stock exchange securities, while borrowers have to pay distinctly more.

Brokers charge customers from 4½ to 6 per cent on debit balances, depending on the account's activity.

Millions of investors have had the super-abundance of cheap money brought home to them by the recalling (repayment) of bonds bearing 4 to 7 per cent interest rates and the substitution therefore of refunding issues yielding around 3 per cent.

In the past, interest rates invariably reflected post-depression revival before it reached the proportions already achieved on this occasion.

What is the explanation?

For one thing, our banks have an unprecedented surfeit of excess unused reserves. This causes competition for loans.

Speculation on borrowed money has continued extraordinarily limited. The great bulk of stock purchasing during the recovery has been for cash.

Then, new capital-raising has been unusually limited. Whereas, even in 1931 American companies raised no less than $2,371,000,000 new funds through issuance of stocks and bonds, the total fell to $165,000,000 in 1933, to $178,200,000 in 1934, increasing to $1,216,000,000 last year—contrasted with $9,376,000,000 in 1929.

Moreover, flotation of foreign securities, aggregating fully $9,000,000,000 for the seven years 1924-1930, have practically disappeared in recent years, due to the government's ban on the issuance of loans here by countries owing us war debts.

What is now the outlook for money rates?

The prospect is that there will be further moderate readjustments downwards, in home and other mortgage rates not already lowered.

But, generally speaking, a gradual rise in money rates must be regarded as logical.

The government is likely to take more drastic steps to cut down excess bank reserves.

Take the Profit Out Of Kidnaping

THE KIDNAPING and murder of ten-year-old Charles Mattson, an unbelievably hideous crime, leaves America shocked and dazed.

It must also leave the nation conscious of its FAILURE to do ALL IN ITS POWER to prevent such a crime.

The wanton brutality of this bestial abuse of a helpless child finds its only parallel in the Lindbergh case.

The striking parallel with the Lindbergh case is too full of meaning to be overlooked.

The way for payment of ransom was left clear.

The agencies of the law were held idle.

In the end, the boy was carried home DEAD.

Are we not convinced now these methods ARE WRONG?

AMERICA will not rest until the perpetrators of this senseless horror have atoned, in the full exaction of the legal penalties their deed warrants.

But America must not rest even then.

THESE HORRIBLE CRIMES MUST STOP!

They can ONLY be stopped by making the PAYMENT OF RANSOM ILLEGAL.

The PROFIT MOTIVE in kidnaping must be banished.

More than two years ago, Senator Ashurst of Arizona proposed Federal legislation outlawing ransom payments, saying:

"In countries which make it a crime to pay ransom to kidnapers, kidnaping is almost unknown."

If the Congress of the United States had enacted such a law at that time, Charles Mattson would probably be alive today.

SENATOR ASHURST'S proposal should be made again, and pushed to speedy enactment.

The full support of the Hearst newspapers is pledged to the outlawing of ransoms and to the banishment of the heinous crime of kidnaping forever.

No principle of law is more sound, than that it should be a felony to pay or negotiate the payment of a ransom.

That principle is recognized and applied in every country that has had the courage to put an end to kidnaping.

It was applied in Canada in the Labatt kidnaping case, without the humiliation of compromise with criminals, and SAVED A LIFE.

America has not yet had that courage, and the Mattson boy has joined the Lindbergh baby in death because of our lack of it.

THE full strength of the law has now been thrown into the task of bringing the killers of the Mattson boy to justice, 15 DAYS TOO LATE.

It is a crime that must be punished.

But capture and punishment can do little more than serve the purposes of vengeance. They cannot restore a life. And centuries of experience with punitive law give us little reason to believe they can prevent other crimes.

Make crime FUTILE by stripping it of PROFIT.

Not all crime can be stopped that way.

BUT KIDNAPING FOR RANSOM CAN BE!

Buy American Plea Made

RECENTLY, one of the nation's leading stores offering men's clothing ran an advertisement with the following phrases conspicuously displayed:

"We went to SCOTLAND for the FABRIC; we went to ENGLAND for the TAILORING."

But the store did not say a word about coming to AMERICA for its CUSTOMERS.

Happily, especially for those that depend on America for jobs, the National Association of Wool Manufacturers DID say something, and from its Boston and New York offices mailed statements to more than 12,000 manufacturers, wholesalers and jobbers.

"To 'Buy American' is more than a mere slogan," declared the Association, "it is an appeal to 'do as you would be done by' and it is a warning that if we do not appreciate that our customers are somebody's employes and our employes somebody's customers, we may all find ourselves with fewer and fewer employes and fewer and fewer customers."

That is common sense. We may like to sell some goods abroad but we must sell MOST of our goods at home. How can we "sell at home," unless we "buy at home"?

An Investment in Lives

SHAKESPEARE said, "The evil that men do lives after them; the good is oft interred with their bones."

The Bard of Avon was wrong; the late Charles Hayden, Boston banker, proved it—with forty-six million dollars.

That vast sum of money, more than a thousand "average" men accumulate in a lifetime, goes to Boston and New York boys and young men—"for their mental, moral and physical betterment."

Writing his will and making this huge bequest, Mr. Hayden pointed out that good and proper living, encouraged by educational, recreational and physical development opportunities would produce "a better race and a more enlightened country."

And, with that purpose, he made his greatest investment, banking most of his fortune in the lives of the boys of today and the men of tomorrow.

There could be no better memorial for a really great man, though, unfortunately, the government, with its almost confiscatory taxation on inheritances, will cut deeply into the money Mr. Hayden gives to youth.

Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

Letters—

Scores, hundreds, thousands of eager letters pouring in with every mail since we first told the youngsters they could share this space. And out of those letters, fresh laughter, clean fire, to blow away, burn away the cobwebs from America's tired brain. Or sometimes a picture to wring your heart. This one, for example.

Elsie Robinson

A girl, still in her teens, struggling to get an education. Working in a restaurant. Ever been a hasher? Know what it means to go shuffling around in a daze . . . shouting orders from a throat raw with fatigue . . . swollen feet, skidding over the greasy floor . . . thin shoulders straining under a brutal load?

Shivering down to work through the icy ooze of dawn . . . crawling back to your bed when the lights are guttering out—And, in between times, trying to get something into your head! Facts, figures, dates and diagrams into your dazed, sick head . . . into a body that's dizzy-doped for sleep.

A SAD PICTURE

Ever know what it meant to be young, LIKE THAT? Dorothy Root does. (Real name? Yes. And she gave me her home address too.) So do thousands like her. Weary, shabby young things, fighting for an education. Lashing their half-grown bodies to get a college degree. No proms for them! No pretty clothes. No rah-rah campus carryings-on. Drudgery, rags . . . lonely, dog-tired hours in dreary attic rooms.

That's the picture Dorothy unconsciously told, talking about Young America for the column. Self-pity? Not a word of it! Bitterness? Never a hint! Chin up, fists clenched, this kid is bucking the game. And sees in her struggle no greater courage than a million others display. Game little scout!

But it's one paragraph in her letter that I want to leave with you today . . . . one paragraph that left this writer sitting still for a long, shamed pause.

"Why am I doing it?" Dorothy asks. "Because I have to! My father is slipping. I have a small brother and sister who must be educated. Soon it will be up to me to take care of the family. But I'm not complaining.

"None of us working young people do. We're thankful that we have the health and opportunity to get through college under any circumstances.

"Only sometimes—when the wind blows my star under a cloud and I can't see it—I wonder then, Elsie, if it's all worth while. Then, suddenly, I see my star again, and I know I can't quit ——

"For God is behind me, and I can't let Him down!"

Read that again ——

"God is behind me—I can't let Him down!"

No poet ever wrote a more singing line. No soldier ever shouted a more ringing challenge than that.

God is behind you—you cannot let Him down!

It does not matter what you call your god, nor who you are in yourself, nor what your record may be.

GOD IS EVERYWHERE

Whoever you are, whatever you believe, GOD IS BEHIND YOU. God is in you . . . in some shining dream you have always cherished, in some faith you have always kept, in some hunger for beauty, or love of decency . . . even in the respect you still hold for your own discouraged or defeated self.

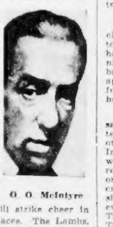
GOD IS BACKING YOU—DO NOT LET HIM DOWN! Hold on to that dream! Fight for that faith! Protect that self-respect! Preserve that hunger for the beautiful and true! These things are truly the living Goodness whose spark burns forever in each of us.

GOD IS BEHIND YOU . . . YOU CANNOT LET HIM DOWN!

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

New York, Jan. 14—Radio is credited with killing off the old-time quartette. Turn almost any dial and one may get close harmony by experts that makes the amateurs seem very corny. And a crack radio quartette is able to ask almost any figure and get it.



O. O. McIntyre

But the barbershop harmonists are not altogether for the collectors of obsolescent Americana. The chords still strike cheer in unsuspected places. The Lambs, The Players, as well as the sedate Union League can scare up a foursome now and then worth cupping an ear to hear.

Incidentally, the elder Rockefeller is said to be a devotee of the diversion and always tunes in on the radio. Another indication of the tug of the quartette is revealed at benefits when some vaudeville quartette is revived and fairly brings down the house. The Avon Comedy Four, for instance.

In lower East Side barber shops and among sailors around Seamans' Institute on South Street are still quartettes. As of old, "Honey" is the prime favorite. And all lists include "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia" and, of course, that pippin for aspiring tenors, "Sweet Adeline."

Old Hat: On a hook in the cloak room of a well known mid-town club hangs forlornly a straw hat. The reason might well furnish a writer of mystery tales a bang-up plot. Did the owner disappear and remain unaccounted for or absently walk out bare-head last summer, or what?

Which is remindful of the white satin lined Inverness cape mystery that wagged tongues of another generation along Broadway. In the cloak room of Murray's—where the dance floor revolved, remember?—an attendant found one dawn an Inverness. All the crowds seemed to have gone, so she peeked about and found everything dark and deserted. The coat was locked up safely. The attendant's assistant would know about it the next day but she insisted she had never seen the garment. The doorman, a careful observer, did not remember admitting anyone so habited. The wrap was kept more than a year and finally sold with the furnishings when Murray gave up the ghost. Boo!

In his swan song as editor of the Saturday Evening Post, George Horace Lorimer pays high tribute to his new hand-raised editor, the youthful Wesley Stout. Lorimer spent 14 years grooming him. Stout is an alumnus of the Kansas City Star, which has turned out so many bang-up magazine writers and editors.

In Billy Seeman's little magazine published for his friends a nurse reveals some simple tricks in whetting appetites of the invalid. Daintiness, more than food, is the piece de resistance. A glass of milk may go untouched but sprinkled lightly with nutmeg—et voila! A bright green garnish on two thin slices of bacon usually makes it assuasive when not otherwise. And a flush red maraschino cherry topping a dessert is invariably provocative. Wee portions with expert daintiness whip up lagging appetites.

What Anthony Eden would probably call the theatrical season's most "ostentatious olid" was bestowed upon Katharine Cornell, who again establishes herself as the legitimate's No. 1 actress in her current play. The critical rave was unanimous. Her first night at the stately Empire was something in the nature of a throwback to the Maud Adams day. There was less of a show-offery in the pews and more of the Serious Drama Lover type. Miss Cornell is about the only stage actress left who has not succumbed to Hollywood gold.

Personal Item: The banker Charles E. Mitchell has moved from his private avenue mansion to an apartment in Sutton Place.

"Yure's Truly"

By Winston Norman

London, Engmnd, Jan. 14.

DEAR SEN. BORAH:

This letter is being wrote in England, where I am now at. I seen where you was the Forrin Relations man in the Senate, so if you got any Forrin Relations, just tell me their name & I will look them up.

Well, Sen. Borah, I been in England a couple of days, so now I will tell you all about it. As for the Geography, it all begun when Caesar made a mistake & built England on an Island. An Island is a little neck of land completely surounded by Bad Weather. That's why they say the Sun Never Sets on English Soil. The sun don't set on it, because it don't never rize on it neither.

The chief exports of England is Englishmen. They been shipping Englishmen all over the world for 1000 years, and they still got too many left. As for the History of England, it begun on July 4, 1776, when they won their innapendence from the U. S. A. Both countrys has been very glad ever since.

The main thing you will want to know, Sen. Borah, is how much War Debts we will get off of England. Well, they sell their money by the Pound over here, like fish, so if we get any War Debts at all, we will get sevral Tons.

I got to cloze now, as I am froze stiff. They don't heat nothing in England, except the back of you when you stand in front of them dinky little Fire Places.

The English people hasen't been warm since they burnt down London in 1666, and they tell me that when the Famous Men of England has froze to death all their life, they don't bother thaw them out. They jest set them up in West Minister Abbey and uze them fer Statues.

"Yures truly,
W. NORMAN.

Our Shrines Crumble

The Human Side of the News

By Edwin C. Hill

Seven wifes of former Presidents were invited to Franklin D. Roosevelt's second inaugural. Only one, Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, accepted the invitation.

Edwin C. Hill

Herbert Hoover is the one living former President. Six widows attest the load of the Presidency, attained always in advancing years when a man must keep strict accounting of his days and his strength.

They are: Mrs. Benjamin Harrison, Mrs. Grover Cleveland, now Mrs. T. J. Preston, Jr., Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Mrs. William Howard Taft, Mrs. Calvin Coolidge and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson.

The Chinese would greatly venerate these illustratious ladies, once the "first ladies" of the land, most of them now in their seventies. Our onrushing democracy, always discounting the future—alarmingly now with our mountains of public and private debt—doesn't go in much for veneration. We accord the six widows the stereotypes of respect. All were admirably fitted for their reign in the White House.

The few who know them love and esteem them, but most of us know very little about them, give no thought to the long road over which they have come. We live in today and tomorrow—fearfully perhaps—and forget the past.

The composite mind of the six placid widows, all of whom seem to be assured that this is the best of all possible worlds, would be interesting to explore.

SECOND MRS. HARRISON

May Lord was a pretty girl just out of college when she went to the White House to live with her aunt, who was Mrs. Benjamin Harrison. She later was to become the second Mrs. Harrison. It was in 1891 that electric lights were first installed in the White House. General Coxey bought six carloads of these fuzzy Benjamin Harrison gray plug hats for his army, marched them across the country to take over Washington, to be repulsed and scattered by a "keep off the grass" sign on the Capitol grounds.

On the reception room table in the White House were volumes of Ella Wheeler Wilcox's poems, with gilt-edged leaves—and on pretty nearly every living room table in America or "parlor tables," as we called them then. Leisure class women were chiefly occupied in fumbling behind their back to see if their shirt waists were hiking up. Eugene V. Debs was roaring across the country with his "red special" train, chilling the hearts of the burghers with the menace of Socialism. The country was palsied with fear over desperate steel transportation strikes. There was a war scare over Bering Strait seal poaching.

Du Maurier engaged the sophisticates, and "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and "East Lynne" still held the kerosene circuit entranced. Dudes, returning from foreign travel, introduced the high hand shake. The Gibson Girl was just starting her marathon. Funny papers were spoofing salad as "cow feed," but the gentry were beginning to eat it. Elegant literature began to work in a few French phrases, even if they broke their arm doing it.

A GROWING NATION

Tramps, snitching an apple pie from the farmer's wife's kitchen window, were standard comics. Divorce was a scandal. The "boy orator" of the Platte had just received his entrance cue and was tuning up his silver pipes. We were still shoving back the frontier.

Bored children now read about all this in school books. Somehow, with the swift pace of today and the thundering onrush of tomorrow, those days seem like ghostly wraiths of a forgotten age. But how vivid they must be in the minds of six widows, with both their minds and their affections enthralled with the destiny of some particular saviour of his country.

And, in the sunset years, what do they think of this whirligig of change in which we live today?

Probably none will ever answer. It was not seemly for highly placed women in their day to engage in public discussion. That was for the men. When Mrs. Benjamin Harrison was married there was an excited public argument over women shoving into medical schools. There was a woman lawyer in Philadelphia, but she "was not received." To be the wife of the President was to be the symbol of fixed, unalterable standards and attitudes of American womanhood, such as the above.

In the years between have come women's suffrage, the invasion of industry, business, politics, arts, sports, literature and finance by women, and a woman member of the cabinet of the United States. The pace that killed has been felling men in general long before their wives, as it felled the six Presidents and, as a result, the accumulation of insurance and legacies has left women with something like 70 per cent of the wealth of the country.

As a result of this, we also have woman financiers, with a strong national organization formulating and consolidating their interests. None of the six widows, all of them intelligent, cultured women, has participated in any of this change in any notable degree.

SHRINES NEEDED

They symbolize today, as they did 30 or 40 years ago, what the professors like to call a "cultural pattern"—a rubric of seemly behavior, of decorum, of regard for the proprieties of generous and unselfish interest in the world about them, but with no departure from the established certainties of church and state and social conformity.

We know we're on the march. We jettison the past. But again, one might cite an older people, the Japanese in this instance, who build the shrines of the Meiji to call their people to whatever wisdom and virtue may have been gleaned from the ages. Even sentimental retrospect is better than none at all. America is a land of crumbling shrines. Will we build new ones and, paraphrasing Mrs. Browning's line, "Give to them the love we gave to our lost gods."

That's That

-:- By Bruce Gustin

Governor Landon of Kansas, retiring to private life after completing his second term as chief executive of that state, observes "it's not so much the kind of laws you have as it is the administration and enforcement of laws that makes for better government."

That is not a new thought, but it is well worth repeating over and over again.

Federal Judge Tillman D. Johnson of Utah, celebrating his 79th birthday, pointed out that by remaining on the bench since he passed the retirement age, nine years ago, he has saved the taxpayers $90,000. He could have been retired at full pay of $10,000 a year. In that event, another judge would have been appointed in his place, also at $10,000 a year.

The impression frequently prevails that a federal judge who remains on the bench after he is eligible to retire is merely hanging onto a public job. The fact he is eligible to a pension and could draw as much compensation for doing nothing as he does for working is forgotten. As long as a judge is mentally and physically able to discharge the duties of his office, he is performing an additional and valuable public service by remaining on the bench after he has reached the retirement age. The bench not only has the value of his experience but the taxpayers are saved from paying two men for the service one can give.

Aside from the fact that more than 90,000 men have been thrown out of work at a time when industry is being urged to increase employment so relief requirements can be reduced, there is a financial reason why the federal government should be interested in a speedy settlement of the General Motors strike. Industrial strife, cutting down production and closing manufacturing plants, deprives the government of considerable tax revenue.

The proposal of Congressman Snyder of Pennsylvania that the federal government build three transcontinental highways not less than 60 nor more than 80 feet wide between the Atlantic and the Pacific coasts, and six highways between the northern and southern borders of the United States is not as fantastic as it may first appear. Every motorist will agree the idea is good, but will ask "where are we going to get the money?"

Enough money has been frittered away on other projects to build some of these roads. According to an estimate by the American Petroleum Industries Committee, American motorists in 1935 bought and paid for 11,130 miles of road they did not get. In that year more than 147 million dollars of taxes collected from them by the States for road purposes were diverted to other uses. It is estimated that in the last dozen years, more than three-fourths billion dollars of gasoline tax money has been used for other than highway purposes. If all the money the motorists pay for roads were used for roads, dreams of great transcontinental highways could be realized in a few years.

During last week's cold spell, the San Francisco-Oakland Bay bridge shrunk four feet and five inches. That was due to contraction of the steel, caused by the cold weather. No damage was done because provision had been made for just such a contingency. One of the most important things engineers have to consider is the effect of weather changes upon the materials they use. Putting the materials together is just a part of a bridge building job.

German people have been told to curb their taste for butter and to patronize street cars in preference to motor busses. Advertisements intended to encourage the use of butter and other fats are prohibited. Germany has a shortage of these. Street car patronage is encouraged to save gasoline of which there is a shortage. People who think Fascism is the ideal form of government should try living for a while in a country which has that kind of a dictatorship. That would teach them to appreciate the liberties enjoyed in the United States.
